MR. HOOVER, it is said, will take up prohibition in his own way, not controlled by wets or drys. That's the right plan. He was elected President, not the wets or drys.

It is added that Mr. Hoover has investigated "control in other countries."

Other countries legislate on the drink question, making laws to suit the people rather than trying to remake the people to suit a law.

Among intelligent nations of Europe it is made difficult and costly to get whiskey and the other alcoholic poisons, comparatively easy and inexpensive to get beer and wine and the less harmful stimulants that men have drunk temperately for centuries.

The "tipster" moves from the race track to Wall Street. You can now buy tips on what stocks will do, based on mysterious information.

These tips do not come from the "feed box." But tipsters assure you they get information from the man that waits on C. E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank, in his private dining room in the bank building; from the man that waits on Otto H. Kahn or Mortimer Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., in their private dining rooms.

Fools actually buy the tips.

New York city, after much discussion, has appropriated the money to build an elevated highway down the West Side of the city, to cost more than $15,000,000. It will remove thousands of cars morning and evening from congested districts. That step other cities eventually must take while waiting to double-deck their streets, which also must come. The old-fashioned city won't do.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has begun a fight to put Col. Robert W. Stewart out of Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Mr. Rockefeller doesn't approve Mr. Stewart's action in connection with a quickly improvised Canadian Oil Company, and asks stockholders for their proxies.

The fight inside one of the little Standard Oil octopuses will be interesting. It is the first fight in which the Rockefeller family has appeared in some time. They have had many in the past, and usually won them.

Dr. E. L. Richards, of Johns Hopkins, says "40 per cent of all persons that visit doctors at hospitals have nothing wrong with them."

Their trouble is in their imagination.

Mind controls the body, and the mind is imagination. The power of various "faith cures" that relieve so many "sick" is due to the fact that so many of the "sick" are not really sick at all.

Mr. Lucey, the old Northampton cobbler who knew President Coolidge for many years, is supposed to have given little Calvin this advice. "Keep your shoes laced tight, and never let your tongue wag."

President Coolidge took that good advice about the tongue. There is no information as to the advice concerning shoes.

It is harmful to lace children's shoes too tight. Lacing tightly around the ankles, pressing on blood vessels, impeding the flow of blood, gives the heart more work to do. Cobbler Lucey was only half right.

Some Jugo-Slavs are annoyed that their King Alexander should declare himself an absolute monarch, promising to kill anybody that questions his autocracy.

Very intelligently the King promises death or 20 years in jail to any newspaper writer offering serious objections to his plan. Absolute monarchs and a free press don't go well together.

Excitement following the war and all the talk about "self-determination" created separate kingdoms that might more wisely have been left in control of others.

Nations fit to survive, do survive without outside help.

Those governed by the self-announced autocrat, Alexander, include Dalmatians, Serbians, Croatians, Slovenes, Bosnians, Montenegrins, Herzegovinians, and others. To manufacture a homogeneous working government machine out of that combination is not easy, even with a hangman and autocracy to help.

Hub Ship Ashore at Panama

Panama, Jan. 11 (AP)—The steamship President Adams of the Dollar Line, bound for San Francisco by way of the Panama Canal, struck a reef outside of the Cristobal breakwater today and went aground.

At 9 o'clock this morning three tugs began trying to pull her free.

The President Adams left Boston on Dec. 30 and New York on Jan. 3 with 90 passengers for Marseilles by way of Havana and San Francisco, calling also at Far East and Mediterranean ports en route.

Most of the passengers, it was said at the Dollar Line office, were making the complete trip. A few were to disembark at Havana and San Francisco.

The President Adams is 6200 tons net register and was formerly known as the Centennial State. She was built at Camden, N. J., in 1921.

The passenger list when the ship left the Hub included 29 Bostonians and New Englanders.

The Boston residents were Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. Mary A. Schroeder, Mrs. M. C. Ferguson and B. W. Whitney, all bound for San Francisco; Walter A. Perry, bound for a world cruise, and Lieutenant-Commander L. C. Carey, U. S. N.,

MALDEN WOMAN SLAIN WITH SASHWEIGHT; AGED KILLER HANGS HIMSELF

Her head split open, apparently by a window weight which was lying nearby, the body of Mrs. Rebecca Eaton was found today in the blood-spattered kitchenette of a house in Belmont , Malden, while hanging in the cellar was the body of Frederick Blohm.

The discovery was made by Patrolman Fred Devanna and Mrs. Elizabeth Blohm, who with her husband occupied the cottage house and rented a room to Mrs. Eaton.

A short time previously Blohm had telephoned his wife where she was employed in Mt. Vernon st., Malden, to hurry

WIFE GETS BIG SHARE OF TEX RICKARD'S MILLION

New York, Jan. 11 (INS)—Mrs. Maxine Elliott Rickard, widow of Tex Rickard, inherited the bulk of the sports promoter's estate, by the will made public today.

According to Jack Dempsey, the estate will amount to $1,000,000.

The residue of the estate goes to the daughter. When she reaches the age of 21 or marries she will be paid one-quarter of the principal of the trust fund. When she is 35 she will be paid an additional one-quarter. Upon the deaths of Rickard's mother and the mother of his first wife, the daughter will inherit their trust funds.

In the event of her death the principal of the trust fund goes to her children or her nearest of kin.

Edith May Schultz is bequeathed $25,000 in trust. When she reaches the age of 21 or becomes married the trust fund is to be paid over to her. Rickard's first wife was a cousin of Miss Schultz.

Following is the will in part:

"In the event my wife, Maxine Elliott Rickard, shall be alive at the time of my death, I give and bequeath to her $50,000; my property in Florida, all personal effects, au-

FIN. COM. TRACING MONEY PAID OUT FOR 'EXPENSES' OF BRAVES

Mrs. Fred Howard, wife of a former Braves Field office employe, made a statement to Atty.-Gen. Warner and Asst. Atty.-Gen. Gerald J. Callahan before a stenographer at the State House today in connection with the investigation of the $30,000 Sunday sports fund of the Outdoor Recreation League.

When she left the attorney-general's office, after having been there for about an hour, she firmly refused to explain her part in the inquiry, and the officials likewise were silent.

Dist. Atty. Foley and Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle are to confer with Warner and Callahan tomorrow forenoon regarding the baseball situation, it was announced today at the office of the Suffolk County prosecutor.

It is reported that irregularities have been revealed with regard to the $30,000, which was spent to help Sunday sports to a victory in the Bay State.

Admission was made today by the attorney-general that the question of procedure in grand jury action was discussed with Asst. Dist. Atty Doyle.

Several persons listed as contributors to the fund, in a report filed with the Secretary of State, in compliance with the Corrupt Practices act, are said to have denied making donations.

Officials are understood to have been seeking traces of a check for $30,000, or a pair of such checks, which would give some clue to facts alleged to have been hidden. Allegation was made during the Finance Commission hearing on "bribery" charges that the Braves were the

During another clash between high State officials over an additional "confession of truth" from James Beadle, trapper and member of the trio of conspirators who drew a life term, Ada Lebouef and the physician held scant hope for ultimate escape, jail attendants said.

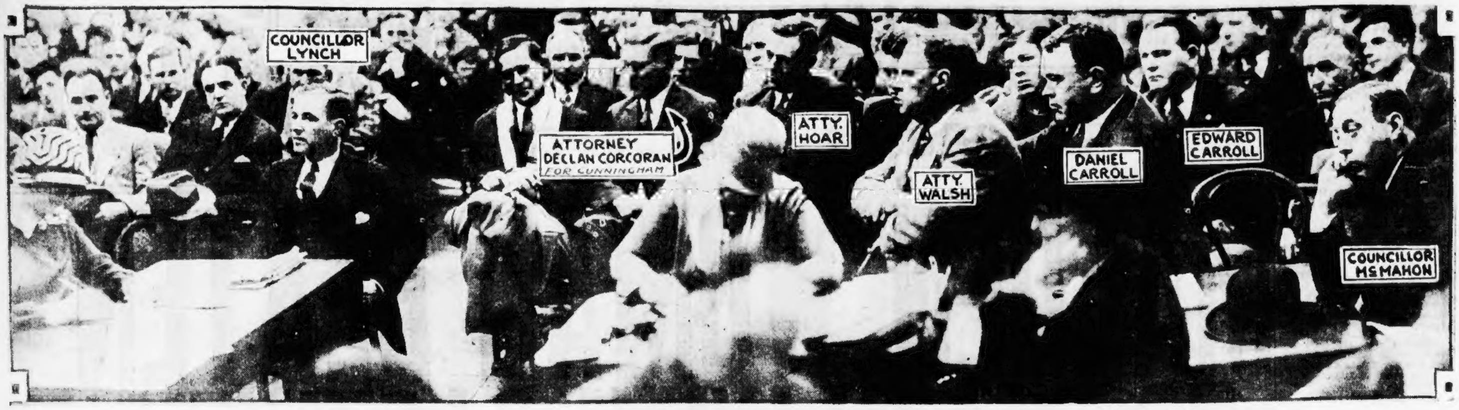
STATE PROBING MISUSE OF NAMES IN BASEBALL PETITION

Councilor Whom Braves Chief Raked With Fiery Broadside Hurls Back Startling Charge



JUDGE FUCHS ATTACKED AS ALL EYES CENTER UPON BASEBALL SCANDAL PROBE'S FEATURE WITNESS

Tense moment in the finance commission's probe of the baseball scandal, as pictured by Gus Williams, Boston Evening American staff photographer. Councillor Lynch, in answer to questions from his counsel, assailed his accuser Judge Fuchs, president of the Braves, as a "racketeer," and declared the baseball official had been under inquiry by federal investigators in New York city.

actual contributors of most of the fund.

The Finance Commission is expected to make a report at its next regular meeting, Thursday, January 17, of its findings on the charge made by President Fuchs of the Braves that city councillors wanted $65,000 from him to accept the Sunday sports law for the city of Boston.

The commission received today from George Clarkson, expert accountant, a list of payments made by the Braves to various individuals and shown on the books of the baseball club under a hearing of current expenses.

TRACE GENERAL EXPENSES

Effort is being made to learn reason for each payment to ascertain if there is anything therein of interest to the investigators.

It is reported that the books show large sums of money turned over to the club secretary, Edmund P. Cunningham, for general expenses, such as for team travel. Without suspicion, the commission is surveying these accounts.

The commission is also said to be conducting privately an inquiry into the $1,100,000 Exchange st. widening, reference to which were made during the baseball hearings.

President Fuchs of the Braves and Vice-President Charles F. Adams will be requested by the City Council to appear before that body for questioning when their application for a specific license for ball games on Sunday at Braves Field is taken up.

This application is not expected to be taken under consideration at the next meeting, Monday, because Adams is out of town.

There is considerable speculation among city officials as to whom the Finance Commission will report—as much in fact as over the question of their decision, if any.

By law the body is empowered to report either to the district attorney or attorney general if it has an recommendation to make of official action. The former is supposed to be in closer touch with city affairs and reports, when made, are generally to him.

In the present case, however, the attorney general is in contact with the commission.

The Finance Commission may instead make a public report or one to the mayor or the City Council, although, in view of the fact that councillors were the accused, the last eventuality is considered an unlikely development.

SUGGESTION BY THORE

Wendell Phillips Thore, so-called father of the Old Age Pension movement, wrote President Thomas H. Green of the City Council today, suggesting that Sunday baseball permits contain a provision that 20 per cent of the gross profits go to his Public Bequest Fund. He forwarded copies to Fuchs and to President "Bob" Quinn of the Red Sox.

More Contributions to Sport Fund Questioned

This fund was sanctioned by the Legislature last year and is for the purpose of receiving bequest contributions and other gifts or property, the income to be used to protect worthy, needy aged citizens, women and men alike.

"In this way the people of Boston and Massachusetts who come to spend their money and give profits to those who are to have this permit would be blessing thousands of good men and women who will need help in the later years of life," wrote Thore.

"It would be applying nothing but a sense of justice to the proposition, merely asking that for the wonderful privilege of making money on Sunday a fair return be given to those, the people, who grant this moneymaking privilege, and it would give a [illegible] 'Sunday touch' to baseball and its profits therefrom."

Regarding the State's probe of the $30,000 Sunday sports fund, Atty.-Gen. Warner said today:

"Nothing definite is in my mind; I haven't made up my mind one way or the other. If anything develops that ought to be brought to the attention of the grand jury, needless to say, we will act accordingly."

Asst. Atty.-Gen. Callahan questioned more of the contributors today.

Two other important developments today were:

The charge made in New York that Judge Fuchs, president of the Braves, had been under federal investigation there and had not been given a "clean bill of health" when it had ended; followed by reply from the Braves magnate, that such a "clean bill" was given him.

A definite move in the Legislature to bring about a change in the law, so that the power to grant permits for professional baseball and other sports on Sunday, should be taken away from the Boston City Council.

The various developments came after the testimony in the Finance Commission probe of the scandal, by Councilor William G. Lynch, in which he defended himself against the attempted bribe charge by Fuchs, and accused the latter of being a "racketeer."

He said he could prove Fuchs had been under inquiry in New York by Asst. Dist. Att. John Holly Clark, Jr., and that he "proposed to show that Fuchs was a judge for only 30 days on a vacation appointment in night court as magistrate, and not as judge."

Atty. Joseph P. Walsh, counsel for Lynch, announced that he would produce proofs of Lynch's statements before the Commission later.

The Commission has indefinitely postponed its hearing in the matter.

Another important development in the scandal today was the announcement by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, that he would get a full transcript of the evidence to the probe; that he was following the whole affair with the closest interest; but that he would not "step in" until the inquiries here have ended and findings made.

Members of the city council, including those named in the alleged line and those numbered among the "lily-whites" were emphatic in their assertions yesterday that they intended to hold up the license of the Braves until after the Finance Commission had made public the report of their findings public.

Want Fuchs and Adams to Appear Before Council

Regarding the possibility that the personal appearance of both President Fuchs and Vice-President Adams before the license committee would be demanded, Councillor Robert G. Wilson, Jr., named by Fuchs as the leader of the opposition to him, gave out the following statement:

"When a jitney bus license is requested, the petitioner is asked to appear in person. Mr. Dana of the Boston Elevated and Mr. Cummings of the Eastern Massachusetts have frequently appeared.

"It is to be assumed that if the officials of the Braves are interested in their pending petition, Mr. Fuchs as president and Mr. Adams as vice president and local representative will of course appear before the council committee. Why not?

"Before Mr. Adam's departure for Bermuda I had been under the impression, contrary to my earlier understanding, that he was in some haste to make up his schedule.

"While I cannot speak for the committee, I of course do not assume for one moment that disposition can be made of the petition until Mr. Adams returns."

In New York city, today, former Asst. United States Dist.-Atty. Clark admitted that he had investigated the activities of Judge Emil E. Fuchs when the latter was attorney for former Federal Prohibition Director Ralph A. Day in 1922.

After a long investigation, there was not enough evidence to indict Fuchs, Clark declared, but his office refrained from giving Fuchs a clean bill of health, he added. Fuchs, according to Attorney Clark, was acting as attorney for Day just previous to and during the time the latter's administration of the office of prohibition director was under inspection by government officials.

The investigation of Day was a sensational episode in the administration of prohibition in New York. It was started by the district attorney's office after an investigator of the department of justice stated publicly that Day had admitted receiving a loan of $100,000 from an alleged bootlegger.

Judge Fuchs said that Clark was wrong, as he had been given a clean bill of health after the investigation by Col. Heyward, who was United States attorney. When informed that Councilman Lynch of Boston had cited the investigation as the basis of his charges against Fuchs, the latter said that the investigation at that time was caused by "men from the same walk of life as Lynch."

Lynch, he termed a "bloody rat who comes along and tried to break up my life and my family, at a time when he knows that my mother lies ill. It's a damnable outrage."

In a formal statement, Judge Fuchs denied everything charged by Lynch and said his life was an open book for anyone to examine. He asked his friends and those who did not know him to reserve judgment until the whole matter has been settled before "the proper tribunal."

On the stand in the Finance Commission hearing Councilor Lynch testified as follows:

"Mr. Fuchs can be proved a racketeer, and blackjacker, and he has used this method of forcing the Boston city council into rushing this order."

Arlington Selectman Criticizes El Service

Hollis M. Gott, chairman of the board of selectmen of Arlington, issued a statement attacking the service supplied to Arlington residents by the Boston Elevated Railway.

Gott stated that he felt that the conditions at the Harvard sq. terminal during rush hours are "abominable, especially with regard to the treatment of women and children passengers while attempting to board cars at that point."

He declared that the board of selectmen are making a direct protest to the El trustees, in an attempt to remedy conditions, and appealed to car riders of Arlington and North Cambridge to co-operate with the board.

home as Mrs. Eaton had just died, and Mrs. Blohm asked the policeman to accompany her to the house.

Finding no one in the front of the house, the officer and Mrs. Blohm went to the kitchenette, which was a shambles. On the floor in a pool of blood was the body of Mrs. Eaton, with her skull broken in. Blood was spattered about the walls and had soaked the victim's clothing. On a nearby table was a blood-smeared window weight.

A further search revealed the body of Blohm hanging by the neck from a rope which was fastened to a pipe in the cellar.

Mrs. Blohm said that Mrs. Eaton had been a friend of the family for some years, before going to board at the house. Mrs. Eaton was a widow, according to Mrs. Blohm, who added that her own nieces also made her home there, but was away at the time of the murder and suicide.

"When I left home this morning," said Mrs. Blohm, "my husband and Mrs. Eaton were rowing over money. She said she had given him $10 to pay an electric light bill, and he denied it, calling her a 'liar.'

"I went to work and about 10 o'clock got a telephone call from my husband, who has been unable to work because of illness. In a nervous voice he said: 'Mrs. Eaton is dead. Come home and take her out. Come home and take me out, too.'"

"I started home, and on the way met Officer Devanna. I told him about the message and asked him to go with me.

"When we reached the house the front door was locked, and no one responded to the bell. I opened the door and we went in. We saw no one in the front of the house, and we could not hear a sound. We went through to the kitchenette, and there was Mrs. Eaton's body, lying on its face. It was terrible. Then we found my husband's body in the cellar.

"I can't explain it. I can't understand why my husband should do such a thing."

SHOOT AND ROB PAYMASTER

Portland, Me., Jan. 11 (AP)—Two holdup men assaulted Jacob F. Coombs, paymaster for the Portland Stove & Foundry Company, near City Hall today, shot him twice and escaped with between $1000 and $2000. Coombs' condition was said not to be serious at the Maine General Hospital.

Coombs was walking from a midtown bank to the foundry on Back Bay, a few blocks away.

Witnesses said one of the holdup men jumped behind Coombs and struck him over the head with a blackjack. As the paymaster fell to the sidewalk the other fired two shots into his body.

The holdup men then grabbed a bag containing the money and speeded away in a waiting automobile.

Police received information they headed toward Lewiston and police of that city and Auburn started a patrol of highways.

New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—Francis Breheny, 21, who described himself as a "Jersey beer runner," was arrested today charged with the murder of Leo Moore, 19, who was shot in a washroom in a Gold st. building two days ago.

Police said Breheny killed Moore because he believed the youth had taken more than his fair share of the proceeds of a burglary they jointly participated in three months ago.

the highest State court for the second time in a renewal of the battle for the slayers' lives which split the court membership a week ago and brought a week's reprieve from Governor Huey P. Long.

A high point in the Supreme Court hearing today was the instructed appearance of Judge James Simon of St. Mary's parish, from whose decision holding the pair sane, appeal was taken. Chief Justice Charles A. O'Neill, in conflict with a majority vote of the court, summoned the trial judge to show cause why a sanity commission should not be appointed.

Governor Long's reiteration of his stand against commutation caused counsel for the defense to turn to the courts today with preparations for a habeas corpus writ in federal court in the event their request to the State court failed.

In this case of decisions, reversals and high legal mixes, a fruitless attempt yesterday by Lieut. Gov. Paul N. Cyr chairman of the state pardon board, to obtain an eleventh-hour interview with Beadle, the lifer who is said by the defence to have fired the fatal shot, brought on a new clash of words between the Governor and Cyr.

After failing to be admitted to the convict's presence, Cyr charged Governor Long with refusing to permit the trapper to make a confession that would bring out the truth.

Unable to locate the Governor, Cyr then claimed that Long "hid out on them."

These allegations the Governor denied and stated that he had given instructions that visitors be prohibited at the prison "in view of the fact that there have been some escapes as the result of so many visitors at the state penal farm."

Later the Governor amplified this statement, declaring that "It makes no difference whether Dreher fired the shot or his lackey did it."

"Dreher has confessed," said Governor Long. "Ada Leboeuf has confessed. If there has been any miscarriage of justice it was the failure to hang old Jim Beadle, too."

FATE OF SECOND WITCH SLAYER HELD BY JURY

Courthouse, York, Pa., Jan. 11 (INS)—While the 14-year-old defendant, John Curry, sat calmly listening in the prisoner's dock, Dist. Atty. Amos W. Herrmann, in his closing address to the jury today asked that a verdict of murder in the first degree be returned against Curry for his part in the "witch" slaying of Nelson D. Rehmeyer. The case went to the jury at 10:45 a. m.

"Whether you give him life imprisonment is at your discretion," the district attorney told the jurors. "I only want to be fair. But you must remember that even though he is a boy he is as accountable under the law as you or I."

Tears coursed down the cheeks of the boy's mother, Mrs. Alice Curry McLane as she listened to the booming voice calling for the punishmnt of her son.

Dist. Atty. Herrmann described the brutality of the killing of Rehmeyer. He told the jurors that robbery, not witchcraft, was the motive.

"If Curry and his two companions went there to get a lock of the old farmer's hair to break a spell why didn't they get it?" he demanded.

GUNMAN SPLITS HEAD OF LYNN WOMAN IN BATTLE

MODEL CLAIMS '3D DEGREE' GOT CONFESSION

Philip Goddard, 19, son of a socially prominent North Shore family, and Mrs. Doris Plaisted, 21, wife of George Plaisted, automobile racer, were fined $50 each in Lynn court today after police testified to finding them in Mrs. Plaisted's apartment on Essex st., Lynn.

Both young people appealed and were held in bonds of $500.

Goddard's parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Goddard of Ocean st., Lynn.

Mrs. Plaisted is employed as a model by a Boston store and has appeared in style shows throughout New England.

According to the Lynn police, the girl admitted to them that she and Goddard were guilty.

Testifying before Judge Philip Kiley today, however, Mrs. Plaisted insisted that he alleged confession was false and was wrung from her by third degree methods.

She was locked in a dark cell, she said, and was told she would be kept there until she made a "confession."

PLACED UNDER ARREST.

According to police testimony, Goddard and Mrs. Plaisted were arrested early today by Patrolman Camillo Polo.

Polo was trying doors on Essex st., he said, when his attention was caught by voices and moving shadows in the apartment house occupied by Mrs. Plaisted. He went around to the front door, according to his story, and there intercepted Goddard as the latter was getting into a sport roadster.

Polo told the court that, after a conference between himself and Goddard, both went to Mrs. Plaisted's suite. There both young people admitted their guilt, Polo said.

The officer took them to the station house, where they were held until court opened.

Two Lynn attorneys represented the defendants. The prosecution was conducted by Deputy Chief Edward D. Calliham of the Lynn police. He asked jail sentences for the alleged offenders, claiming that Mrs. Plaisted was a bad influence in young Goddard's life.

HAD MATE ARRESTED.

Testimony was introduced to the effect that Plaisted, the auto racing husband, is touring the tracks in California.

Police say that Mrs. Plaisted recently had her husband arrested for non-support. He was racing at the Rockingham speedway, Salem, N. H., at the time. Officers who went for him politely waited for him to finish a competition.

The non-support case was continued and has not yet been heard.

Today's hearing was attended by a crowd that jammed the courtroom and the evidence required more than 2½ hours.

Admitting in Brighton court today that when he went to "reason" with his brother-in-law in a family row he took along a loaded revolver and a 12-inch carving knife, Salvatore Battalia, 65, Roxbury, was today given a suspended sentence of one year in the House of Correction.

The brother-in-law, Leo Spinella, 38, Allston, received a similar sentence when he confessed to having a loaded revolver in anticipation of Battalia's visit. Both men were put on probation.

GIRL, 15, DIES OF FLU; 331 NEW CASES

Only 22 hours sick, 15-year-old Virginia Fahy, daughter of Frank Fahy, probation officer in Quincy Court, died of influenza today as 331 new cases of the malady were being reported in Massachusetts.

Of this number 108 were in Boston. The total thus far in January is now 2318—or nearly double the number of cases in the entire year of 1928.

Today's report of new cases fell 100 short of yesterday's 441, however.

Despite the long list State Health Commissioner George H. Bigelow, just back from the conference called in Washington by the surgeon-general of the United States Public Health Service, said today evidence presented there supported the evidence gathered here that there is no epidemic of influenza yet in Massachusetts.

"Health officers from all over the country reported their experiences with the disease," he said. "All agreed that the reporting of cases is no index of prevalence."

Secret Donor Gives Roxbury Hospital Fund of $3500

The Roxbury Hospital today announced a gift of $3500 from an anonymous donor. The money is to be used for the purchase of radium for the treatment of cancer and other diseases which respond to radioactive rays.

The new fund is expected to be of special value to the outpatient department of the hospital.

STILLS WORTH $25,000 BLOW UP IN REVERE

With a double roar heard all over Revere and part of Saugus, two stills, the largest ever discovered in that section, exploded today in a barn on Salem st., North Revere.

The two-story wooden barn burst into flames, and immediately on his arrival Fire Chief Thomas J. McCarrick ordered a second alarm sounded, calling all the regular apparatus and aid from Chelsea.

A police detail was rushed to the scene, and on learning what caused the explosions they summoned Sergt. Dominic Church and his liquor squad.

When the flames were extinguished and police found the stills were located in the cellar and on the ground floor of the big barn, one of 2000 gallons capacity and the other of 2500 gallons. There was an intricate system of piping, with gasoline-fed burners under the stills.

Two barrels of gasoline exploded during the fire, but firemen salvaged 25 drums which were outside the barn.

The police also seized 12 drums of liquor and estimated that the entire outfit was worth $25,000. Because of the difficulty of dismantling the stills in the ruins, the public works department loaned a tractor, which pulled down the barn and dragged out the stills. No one was found at the fire.

ARRAIGN GALLO AS SLAYER

Samuel Gallo, a prisoner at the Charles st. jail, today was arraigned before Chief Justice Perley Hall for first degree murder in connection with the shooting of Joseph Fantasia.

He was held without bail.

The Fantasia murder is the one for which Gangi Cero, now in the state prison death house, stands convicted. He was to have been electrocuted this week, but was granted a 30-day respite.

Gallo told Justice Hall today that he had no funds for the employment of defense counsel. He asked that an attorney be assigned to protect his rights.

The chief justice said he would take under advisement Gallo's wish to have a lawyer of his own choosing.

Perkins May Be U.S. Reparations Envoy

Paris, Jan. 11 (INS)—The new commission of reparations experts to revise the Dawes plan is ready to meet for organization as soon as the American observers are named. The names most frequently heard today are Owen D. Young and Thomas N. Perkins of Boston. Previously the name of Rufus Dawes, brother of the retiring vice-president was mentioned, but he is now believed to be out of consideration.

Attack Victim

MINNIE KUDERA

Lynn woman who was hit on the head with a revolver butt by a gunman. He escaped when she screamed.

FIRES SHOT AT DEFENDER IN HIS ESCAPE

Police today were hunting for a gunman who split open the head of a Lynn woman with a revolver butt, dragged her into a darkened driveway and when pursued by persons attracted by her screams, fired a shot through the coat of one of the pursuers.

The woman, Miss Minnie Kudera, 30, of 20 Carnes st., Lynn, is in a serious condition at her home today, with three stitches in a head wound, a blackened eye, and multiple bruises about the body.

For more than five minutes she battled her assailant, screaming and scratching at him while they rolled about in the mud of a driveway at 41 Mall st.

Miss Kudera was returning from a movie and as she approached a darkened section of the street, the stranger jumped from behind the shadow of a tree, and seized her.

She was pulled into the driveway and in the scuffle, her clothing was torn and mud spattered, and her eye glasses broken.

Finally her cries for help attracted the attention of Robert Paine, and his brother-in-law, Edward Sparks, who drove up to the house in their automobile.

They rushed to the girl's aid, but only after the thug, forced to flee, had slugged the girl over the head with the butt end of his revolver. She was rendered unconscious.

The thug then ran through the rear yard, climbed two fences and reached Barrett st. with Paine and Sparks close on his heels. The thug continued on to Western ave., where John Culliton, 25, of 39 Franklin st., espied him. Culliton stepped out to halt the man, but the latter whipped out a revolver and fired a shot. The bullet passed through Culliton's overcoat.

BRANDISHES GUN

The thug then continued up Western ave., brandishing his gun as he ran, dashed into a yard and over another fence.

When Paine and Sparks returned to the yard, Miss Kudera was still unconscious. They picked her up and removed her to the Lynn Hospital, where she was treated for her multiple wounds.

Police combed the entire section of the city without result, and during the night stopped automobiles and watched the railroad depots for the man answering the description of the gunman.

He was described as between 22 and 24 years old, 5 feet 8 inches in height, and slim. He wore a light tweed cap and dark overcoat and glasses.

Because of the ruthless tactics of the man, police discounted the theory of robbery, expressing the belief that he intended to attack the girl.

Einstein Spends 10 Years on Treatise

Berlin, Jan. 11 (AP)—Prof. Einstein has submitted to the Prussian Academy of Science a manuscript of five pages which it took him 10 years to complete and which he considers of more importance than his widely-discussed theory of relativity.

The manuscript contains mathematical and physical formulae dealing with the problem of merging mechanics and electro-dynamics. The Prussian Academy of Science will release it in about two weeks.

Juror Collapses On Way to Court

Edward T. Tighe, 59, of Spring st., Mills, a juror serving in Federal Court, collapsed in the South Station rotunda today while on his way to court from his home. He was taken to City Hospital. Physicians declared his condition due to arterial trouble.

HUBBY MAY HAVE TO QUIT

Wedding of Marjorie Jacmain, Kansas University co-ed, photo by International Newsreel, to Russell Momahon Smith, junior at Washington and Jefferson, may cause his withdrawal from the university. They were wed Christmas. A ruling was made by W. and J. whereby married under-graduates must leave that institution.

Yale Bares Romance of Ancient Syria

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 11 (AP)—Yale University is engaged in an enterprise that promises to open a new chapter in the romance of classical archaeology, according to today's Alumni Weekly.

The site under excavation is that of Doura-Europos on the west bank of the Euphrates, due east of Palmyra, queen city of the Syrian desert.

Discoveries to date reveal Doura as a frontier outpost of Hellenistic and Roman civilization during six centuries, from the age immediately following Alexander the Great to the disappearance of Roman power in the Tigris-Euphrates valley.

Traces of the persistence of the Greek influence is seen in the inscriptions dating far into Roman imperial times, the period of the Roman domination is likewise vividly illustrated by the ruins.

Only a small part of the site has been excavated. The towers surrounding the wall, the main thoroughfares of the city, as well as hundreds of private dwellings still await scientific examination.

85 Fined $1357 In Game Law Cases

A total of 85 persons were convicted during December in the courts of violating state fish and game laws. Fines aggregated $1357. In each case the offender lost his hunting and trapping license and the right to secure another license for one year.

DENNETT HEADS BOARD FIGHTING BASIN PLAN

Carl P. Dennett was today elected chairman of the committee of Beacon st. residents opposed to the Harriman plan for the improvement of the Charles river basin.

At a meeting held in a State st. office, preliminary plans of organization were drawn up and Richmond Fearing was added to the committee, which includes besides Dennett, W. K. Richardson and George E. Warren.

It is the unanimous opinion of the committee that the Harriman plan in its present form "destroys the recreational advantages of the Charles river basin and makes the approach hazardous and difficult."

In addition, the speedway contemplated in the plan will result in a large increase of inbound traffic "without any adequate provision to distribute this traffic through the downtown districts—at least without enormous additional expense, which is not provided for in the plan."

At a future meeting counsel will be retained and plans for the raising of funds discussed.

Young Sees Coolidge On Reparations Job

Washington, Jan. 11 (INS)—The German reparations problem was discussed at a White House conference today by President Coolidge, Secretary of State Kellogg and Owen D. Young, of New York. S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, was summoned but arrived after Kellogg and Young left here.

Young has been invited to serve as one of the American delegates on the inter-allied commission to fix the amount of German reparations. Leaving the White House he declined to say whether he would accept.

'L' RIDE COSTS PATRON $20 IN COURT

One ride on the Boston Elevated cost Vincenzo Grossi, 38, of Wheeler st., South End, $20 instead of 10 cents. For dropping an imitation dime of his own manufacture into a fare box at the Dover st. station of the Elevated, Grossi was fined $20 in municipal court today.

Grossi fled when a guard who saw him drop the metal disc, spoke to him, and he was arrested by Officer Harvey B. Yates after a chase. In his possession was a small vise which Grossi admitted he used in making imitation dimes out of thin metal.

DEMAND HIGHER TARIFF UPON CHINAWARE

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—To meet competition from foreign importations, particularly from Japan, the American pottery industry today sought from the house ways and means committee an increase in tariffs on earthenware and china.

W. E. Wells, East Liverpool, O., asked that a specific duty of 15 cents a dozen be added to existing ad valorem duties of 45 per cent and 50 per cent, respectively, on undecorated and decorated earthenwares.

He also requested a specific duty of 25 cents a dozen be added to the present ad valorem duty of 60 per cent and 70 per cent, respectively, on plain and colored china.

J. T. Gilman of Boston, representing wholesalers of china and earthenware, endorsed Wells' recommendations. He said the jobbers and chain operators would absorb the added cost of the imported goods on high grade wares.

William S. Pitcairn, New York, representing importers of British alleged abuse by American travelers china, asked that attention be given of the law permitting them to bring in wares up to $100 in value duty free.

PAUPER GRAVES FOR 90 MORE

New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—As the big city plunged into the beginning of another day, a municipal ferry boat came up to an East River slip this morning and received the bodies of 26 adults and 64 babies—humans whom nobody has wanted.

The city buried them all in Potters' field on Hart's Island. The morgue said it was the young year's largest consignment of unknowns and unfortunates.

And as if to remind happier, more prosperous New Yorkers of the tragedies that daily transpire unnoticed in the big melting pot, the morgue also announced that last Tuesday 57 bodies had been given paupers' burial. The number on January 7 was 36 and on January 8 it was 76.

Seven of the adults buried today were known to have died of alcoholism.

Police Warn of Fake Collectors

Police of the La Grange st. station last night warned business men, that two men, both well dressed and glib talkers were making collections of money for an organization which they described as the Federation of State, City and Town Employes' Association.

The men are frauds, and, according to reports reaching the police, succeeded in obtaining small amounts of money at several business offices. One is about 60 years old and the other 40 years old.

TO DISTRIBUTE RAILWAY CASH

Litigation over the Milford & Uxbridge, and the Milford, Holliston & Framingham Street Railway Companies, pending in Supreme Court since July, 1926, was ended today when Judge Wait ordered a distribution of money remaining in the hands of the receiver.

Out of $165,265.41 now in the hands of Walter B. Adams, receiver for both companies, $47,846.63 is to be paid to the Old Colony Trust Co., for the benefit of bondholders of the Milford & Uxbridge, and $38,756.58 to the American Trust Co., for the bondholders of the Milford Holliston & Framingham road.

On July 28, 1926, the two Boston banks as trustees for bondholders brought bills in equity to foreclose mortgages given on property of the railway companies to secure the payment of bonds.

Today's decree also provides that Receiver Adams shall be paid $7500 in addition to what he has received for services; and payments were also allowed to the banks and numerous lawyers representing the banks, the [illegible] and the bondholders.

5C. GAS TAX FOR VERMONT

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 11 (AP)—To retire flood bonds of Vermont, which total $8,500,000, a five-cent gasoline tax with a rebate for gasoline not used for transportation on the highways, an increase of fifty per cent in registration fees of trucks of over one ton capacity and all busses or other automobiles used for hire, and an increase of twenty-five per cent on trucks of one ton capacity were the recommendations of the special committee of the Vermont section of the New England Council appointed to study the matter.

It was estimated these increases would raise $778,000. The committee's report was submitted today to Gov. John E. Weeks and given by him to the Legislature.

DECLARES DESERTION CHARGE 'TOO BASE TO ANSWER'

EXCLUSIVE!

INSTALLMENT NO. 5

By GEN. UMBERTO NOBILE

Commander-in-Chief of the Ill-fated North Pole Expedition, Made Aboard the Dirigible Italia Last Summer.

Copyright, 1929, in North and South America by New York American, Inc. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited. Copyright in all other countries by Umberto Nobile.

Rome, Jan. 11

IN those sad days I had an intuition of only a part of the truth. It was only later, when I was able to read the first foreign newspapers, that I had a completely clear idea of the abject speculation made on the accident to Lundborg.

Nobile had abandoned his companions: In front of the infamous accusation, I withdrew within myself. I disdained to explain. The others would have defended me, if they wished, if they thought it necessary. In regard to myself the calumny was too vile for me to lower myself to defend.

SAW HOPES FAIL

Also a great bitterness filled me. Of what avail, therefore, to have flown 171 hours from Rome to the North Pole, to Teller, Alaska, facing a thousand unmeasurable risks, many of which were not even foreseen, and overcoming a thousand adversities, to have faced the unknown for the first time, to have wished to face it again a second time even knowing the risks!

Of what avail to have broken every tie with the world, with my own family; of what avail to have started for even new flights with the soul of one who admits the great probability of never returning!

Of what avail to have flown for 250 hours from Rome to King's Bay, from King's Bay to Nicholas II land, to Greenland, to the Pole; of what avail to have faced and braved a hundred times the danger of a catastrophe without raising an eyebrow; of what avail, therefore, to have flown for 431 hours to support the responsibilities, fatigue and the burden of an arduous command for the search of the secret of those deserted wildernesses of ice?

Of what avail to have seen the dirigible fall—one's own creature—and with the dirigible all one's own hopes, all one's past, all one's future without the slightest contraction of a muscle; of what avail to have found the strength to smile, to encourage one's own companions even in the solemn instant when death seemed imminent.

Of what avail to have found in those supreme moments in which it is not possible to lie, in which man is nude before God, in which all at the depth of the soul is revealed, the masks fall, to have in that moment but one passion and one cry to express it: "Viva l' Italia!"

CHARGES VILLAINY

Of what avail to have for 50 unending days kept up the spirits of my companions, to have smiled on the moments of greatest desperation, to have comforted them, to have even encouraged them to go and leave me alone down there in the midst of the frozen desert, at the mercy of the ice, along with my wounded companions!

Of what avail to have consecrated all the energies of one's own spirit to one's companions; of what avail all this if, now profiting by Lundborg's (the Swedish aviator rescuer) accident, some one who waited in ambush as with a pointed gun for a good moment to fire, dared to launch such an infamous accusation against me!

What villainy! And to say that to remain here was so simple and easy for me.

It was so easy to stay there waiting for some one to come and get me!

I said one day to some one: That at that moment when I decided to leave two hours before my companions, never for an instant did I think that any one could criticize my action, but even if I had had such a suspicion, I should have left all the same, deeming it my duty.

I confess, however, that in one case only would I have categorically refused to give in to sentiment rather than obey my conscience, that is, if I had foreseen the probability of an accident happening to Lundborg on his return. I should then have lacked the courage to leave. Too grave was the sacrifice to remain separated from my companions, so that I decided spontaneously, to face it.

Some even tried to compare me to the captain of a wrecked ship who abandons his post of command only at the last, after having done all that was possible to save the crew. Naturally, during the wreck of the Italia, I took the most dangerous place, and which was the cause of my being the most seriously wounded, but also, after the fall, the airship was no more, because it had flown away, leaving us isolated on the ice.

INTELLIGENCE CLEAR

Suppose that in some strange case a ship struck on a rock, throwing out the captain and some officers. Suppose, still, that afterwards the tempest dispersed the ship so that its fate is unknown, as well as that of the remaining crew.

Suppose, to continue the unlikely case, that the captain is gravely wounded; he has a broken arm and leg; he is unable to move. Suppose that he, with his calm, with his faith, with his serenity of comfort and moral support for his companions, nevertheless, can only be a very grave preoccupation for them.

Fortunately, in this wounded commander his intelligence is clear; his brain works even if his body is invalided.

He therefore, or at least he thinks that those who are directing the operations of rescue from afar do not take the situation into account, do not act as he would like, do not do according to his opinion all that could be done to search for the other lost companions on the ship, and he, better than any other, knows how it should be done, yet better than any other he would be able to devote himself with all the strength of his nature to the search.

Though his wounds render him incapable of moving and acting himself he can, however, examine, advise, direct; he knows all this well.

And on the day in which a boat succeeds in finding and approaching the rock to take the shipwrecked men to safety one by one, the captain indicates another wounded to be taken away first, but the remaining captain refuses on account of the boat and insists that he should go, because he is useful, he is necessary, for the search of his companions.

Later the boat will return lighter and will take the other wounded man and the rest. The wounded commander understands the necessity, the duty of consenting and leaving before his companions who would in a very short time rejoin him.

TELLS OF DUTY

Be it said once and for all. As head, my post of command was here: on board the Citta Di Milano, to direct the operations of rescue, and not on the ice where my wounds not only prevented my assisting my companions in any way whatever, but constituted a burden and a danger for them.

After all, my having consented to be taken first by Lundborg—who asserted having received this order—and who, moreover, having the precise order of taking the wounded first, could not begin with Cecioni—was a thing which concerned only my own conscience and feelings.

The spectators, those who without running any of the mortal risk of Lundborg—read of them in the newspapers, could find the decision of Lundborg and mine more or less sympathetic, more or less beautiful from a theatrical point of view, but they had no right to demand explanations.

Down there on the ice were six men, two wounded and four well, waiting to be rescued. The rescuer, who ran the greatest risk, was the real arbiter of the choice of the order in which they should be rescued. He did well to take Nobile first, if the life of Nobile was the most important, if it were true that Nobile, though badly wounded, could give valuable advice for the carrying on of the rescue of the other ship-wrecked men.

And be it said—once for all—that decision was providential for my companions. It was a great fortune for them that I was on the Citta di Milano after Lundborg's accident.

Divine Providence, who wished by that accident to prolong their martyrdom, calling on valorous Swedes to participate in the hard [illegible] on the other hand and wished that in order to repair the consequences of the accident I should be found here. An ignoble outburst of calumny broke out among us at the very moment when they should have thanked God that I was here.

OTHER MEANS FAIL

Because, after all, if on the 12th of July the Krassin could reach and save the companions in a certain way it was through my insistence in inciting the chief of the Russian expedition, Professor Samoilowsky, to advance, just when—depending on the damages sustained by the icebreaker and the scarcity of combustible supply—everyone aboard the Citta di Milano gave up hope that she could advance above Cape North.

Everybody aboard was already giving all hope and all activities to the preparation of other means that experience had to demonstrate as insufficient.

The Almighty, deciding that out of all my companions I alone should be taken in flight from the place where we had fallen when flying, had His designs. This was perhaps understood by my companions, when—by means of the wireless—before leaving the pack, at the very moment of embarking on the Krassin, they sent their affectionate greetings to "their beloved General."

This was perhaps what they wished to express when, having returned to Italy, in saying farewell, they embraced me, greatly moved, and thanked me for having chosen them to take part in the expedition.

For them I was not the head who had abandoned them, but the beloved head, the head who always precedes, even when to precede might be considered cowardly by the cowards, while it is the demonstration of willingness to accomplish his duty till the last at any risk.

(The above concludes the series of five articles by Gen. Nobile, published exclusively in the Boston Evening American.)

'THE SKYRAIDER' NEW SERIAL

"The Sky Raider," a thrilling mystery story of life, love and danger in the air mail service, written by Donald E. Keyhoe, flying aide to Col. Lindbergh, begins next Monday in the Boston Evening American.

Dick Trent, a young aviator, who has just joined the service, is the hero, and Mary Rand, lovely daughter of the owner of the flying field, is the heroine. On his first trip Dick carries an important letter from Rand to his son, Tommy. He locates the youth in a gambling resort and flies him back to his own field to save him from dismissal.

Then follow dramatic episodes in which murder and mystery grip the reader. It is the latest and best story of the air mail service that has been produced.

HOOVER TALKS ON CABINET WITH ROOT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 11—After nearly a week of constant conferences with politicians, weighing their claims and hearing their recommendations, Herbert Hoover found surcease today in a long talk with one prominent party figure who, he is quite confident, has no appointment and no political preferment to urge—Elihu Root, the venerable Nestor of the Republican party.

The aged leader—he will be 84 next month—emerged from his semi-retirement and came to Washington at the express invitation of the President-elect. Mr. Hoover, it is said, wanted to have "a general consultation" with Mr. Root, and they had it over the Hoover breakfast table in S st.

Particularly, it was said, Mr. Hoover wanted to obtain the detached viewpoint of Mr. Root upon a variety of matters that will affect his administration.

They discussed cabinet appointments, Latin-American affairs, and world policies in general. They discussed them at such length that the President-elect was late getting to his hotel for the daily round of political interviews.

After the Root breakfast the President-elect hurried to the hotel office and resumed his political conferences. Senator Thomas (R.) of Idaho, Senator Deneen (R.) of Illinois and Senator Bingham (R.) of Connecticut were among his first callers.

The political conversations were broken into by a delegation from the American Philosophical Society, founded by Benjamin Franklin, presenting the President-elect with an engrossed scroll commemorating his election. Mr. Hoover has been a member of the society for 10 years and is the ninth member to be elected to the presidency.

Puts Radio Inquiry Up to Justice Dept.

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission is requested in a resolution introduced today by Representative Davis, Democrat, Tenn., to transmit to the attorney-general for action all evidence taken in the case charging several concerns had a monopoly in radio.

The resolution referred to the investigation conducted by the Trade Commission into the charges made against the General Electric Co., the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., Western Electric Co., the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., the International Radio Co., and the United Fruit Co., the Wireless Specialty Apparatus Co., and the Radio Corporation of America.

Son Must Account for Father's Estate

Fall River, Jan. 11—Unless Charles V. Briggs of Lincoln files accounting in the near future in the $24,000 estate of his father, Benjamin D. Briggs, and the $111,000 estate of his aunt, Mrs. Isabella F. V. Summerbell, both late of this city, Judge Hitch of the Probate Court has intimated that he will remove him as administrator of his father's estate and executor of his aunt's.

REED ATTACKS KELLOGG PACT 'EXCEPTIONS'

brought in, but that the failure to thus clearly set forth American views made it necessary for every senator to look closely into what the treaty meant before giving his advice and consent to ratification.

As he spoke Senator Reed had before him on an easel a large map of the world showing the British possessions and spheres of influence in bright red coloring.

"What the nations of the world have not been able to accomplish in all time," Reed declared, "is now proposed to be done by the magic stroke of Mr. Kellogg's pen.

"On its face the treaty would do away with all wars, but the negotiations had scarcely begun when Mr. Kellogg began to admit exceptions.

"I wish to call your attention to those exceptions so we can see what is left of this treaty after we have considered them."

Epigrams Feature the Senate Debate on Kellogg Treaty

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—The long drawn out debate on the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war is filling the Congressional Record with epigrams.

Here are a few terse senatorial sayings of the last few days:

"Akin to the commandment, 'Thou shalt not kill.'"—Wagner of New York.

"A pious pronouncement of pure piffle,'—Blaine of Wisconsin.

"A stab in the air."—Bruce of Maryland.

"A gesture, but a noble gesture."—Swanson of Virginia.

"If we are going to throw a kiss to Europe let us understand that it carries no obligations of matrimony."—Reed of Missouri.

"Neither a great triumph nor an empty gesture, a forward step."—Senator Walsh of Massachusetts.

REPAIR PEARY FOR TRIP

Work of reconditioning the exploring vessel Peary, formerly the property of Donald B. MacMillan, was begun at the shipyard of Richard T. Green Company in Chelsea today.

At the same time came announcement that the Peary will be used to take its new owner, M. F. Bramley, Cleveland, O., millionaire paving contractor, to a fishing paradise which he plans in the Pacific. Bramley intends to build a breakwater around a sunken island which he discovered, and convert it into fishing grounds.

The reconditioning was begun after the vessel was brought to a point close to the company's offices. Richard Green of the Green Company said the principal thing to be done was the reconditioning of the engines.

Capt. L. B. Lockwood is in Boston acting for Bramley.

Coolidge Ha Ha's Up His Sleeve at His Job Joke

By George E. Durno
International News Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 11—Just as he got concealed amusement out of announcing he "did not choose to run in 1928," and then watching politicians flounder around over his true meaning, so today it appears President Coolidge is getting an inward laugh out of the efforts to ascertain his plans after leaving the White House on March 1.

Just before the holidays, when asked to comment on a story that he probably would return to Northampton, Mass., for the time being, he said: "That guess was as good as any other."

Today, it seems to be a little better than any other. Cumulative information indicates that at least the first few months after his retirement from office will find Mr. Coolidge back in the New England town.

It does not at this time seem likely any of the big executive positions offered or available to the President are going to tempt him immediately. Five and a half years in the exacting office of the presidency look as though they will be followed by a period of "sitting on the front porch and whittling."

It is not unlikely Mr. Coolidge will turn his hand to writing, interspersed with a little traveling. The views of a man fresh from the national pinnacle would command a fancy figure from a number of publications and syndicates, many of which are understood already to have put forward lucrative offers.

Meanwhile, rumor leaps over rumor. Every time the President of a railroad or the chairman of the board of a big corporation dies, the story is circulated that President Coolidge is to succeed to the position.

Mr. Coolidge sits back and laughs in his sleeve. To mystify and confuse a group of individuals temporarily, to watch them run around in circles seeking to solve the Coolidge riddle—that is his idea of a right good joke.

$25,000,000 TO FUND FOR DRY ENFORCEMENT

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—An increase of $25,000,000 in the fund for prohibition enforcement was approved today by the Senate appropriations committee.

The increased funds, which would become available immediately to the prohibition bureau, was voted on motion of Senator Harris, Democrat, of Georgia, who recently described enforcement as a "farce."

Since the prohibition law became effective 10 years ago the government has been appropriating a round $13,000,000, and if the proposed increase goes through the money to use in enforcement would be trebled.

The increase must be approved by the Senate and the House. The Senate committee has asked the prohibition bureau for a statement showing how it would spend the proposed $25,000,000.

Senator Harris, who is a dry, attributed the "farcical" conditions in enforcement to the lack of appropriations.

COMPULSORY INSURANCE THREATENS TO BOOST TAXI FARES

INCREASE SEEN FOR HUB

A movement is on foot to raise taxicab rates in Boston as a result of the new compulsory insurance rates, according to John T. Rockett, president of Town Taxi, Inc.

Rockett made this startling assertion while praising the bill of Frank A. Goodwin, former motor vehicle registrar, which the Boston Evening American endorses, and which would establish a State Fund to supply compulsory automobile insurance at cost.

"The raising of taxi rates will be a bad thing for the City of Boston," said Rockett, "as the taxi is a part of the everyday life of the people and they ought to have cheap transportation. It looks, however, as if we will be forced to raise rates to get by.

PAID $400 A CAB

"I endorse Goodwin's bill because I believe the present compulsory insurance rates are excessive, and this is particularly true of the rates on taxicabs. Last year $400 per cab was paid.

"At first glance a person might say I was in favor of the Goodwin bill from a selfish motive but let's examine the results of the present law and see what the facts are.

"The Boston public is now riding in a lot of junk because the $100,000 a year which my company now is forced to pay for compulsory insurance was formerly used in purchase of new cars and the public got the benefit.

"Not a single new car has been purchased by any of the taxi companies in Boston since the compulsory insurance law went into effect two years ago. That is all wrong as every large city needs cheap and good transportation whether it be in taxis or street cars.

"Another important result of the operation of the present law is the number of fake and exaggerated accident claims. Seventy-five per cent of the claims are fake or exaggerated. In little cases where $50 would be a reasonable sum to settle for those injured now want from $300 to $500.

"It seems as if the insurance companies don't care. Their attitude seems to be, 'we should worry.' They do not want to investigate accident claims. They do it in a half-hearted way. Their attitude is that those who are insured have got to bear the burden anyway, and that the claims represent good business for the insurance companies. It takes them two or three months to investigate a case.

"The courts of this state are now so crowded with accident cases as a result of the present compulsory insurance law that in the ordinary course of events, three years will elapse before a case is reached for trial after being filed.

WOULD ELIMINATE EVILS

"We have very few accidents. All [illegible] the claims of lawyers, phy[illegible] [illegible] persons they represent, [illegible] resulted from the present law and the courts are clogged with cases in consequence. All these evils can be done away with by the passage of Goodwin's bill, which is sound in theory and will, without doubt, work out well in practice."

Rockett believes the provision in Goodwin's bill calling for an investigation within 24 hours of every accident will eliminate many of the fake claims that insurance companies now settle for cash.

Under the bill of Goodwin the sum of $16 will be paid as compulsory insurance on every passenger car at the time of registration, regardless of its size and power, or where garaged. The certificate of registration will serve as an insurance policy, thus doing away with that cost. Trucks will pay $25, and rental cars, taxis and buses $50, regardless of where garaged or what their power.

Goodwin figures his plan will save the motorists of this State a total of $7,500,000 annually. Of this amount saved, $3,000,000 will be in commissions to insurance agents. The State Fund to be established under the law proposed by Goodwin would be administered by a commission of three persons appointed by the Governor and Council.

He Objects to Suicide, But Slays Ex-Wife

San Francisco, Jan. 11 (AP)—A World War veteran, held for the murder of his divorced wife, waited with apparent satisfaction today for the law to take its course, maintaining his execution would complete a strange death pact. He is Garland Williams, 28, accused of slaying Mrs. Lorraine Ambrose.

When arrested Williams smilingly held out his wrists for the handcuffs.

"You got me before I was quite ready," he was quoted as saying. "It doesn't matter though, because I am ready to die; she's waiting for me."

Police said the prisoner vowed he killed Mrs. Ambrose in a death pact that was to be completed when the law claimed his life and that he elected to be hanged because he objected to suicide.

He said he and his former wife talked over the pact for two days before she agreed to his plan. Then he strangled her.

Trees, Losing His Family, Weds Young Woman

Pittsburgh, Jan. 11 (AP)—Joseph C. Trees, multi-millionaire oil operator, who rose from a laborer in the oil fields of western Pennsylvania to be one of the dominant figures in the international oil industry, has married his former secretary, Miss Edith Lehm of Dormont, a suburb.

The ceremony was solemnized in Washington by an Atlantic City pastor. The couple is spending a honeymoon in Washington.

Trees, whose first wife died about a year ago, is 59 years old. The bride is 35.

Trees' success in the oil industry was saddened by the death of his entire family.

The first Mrs. Trees died after a long illness and two sons were killed in accidents—one in an automobile crash 20 years ago and the other in an airplane wreck in a Texas training camp during the World War.

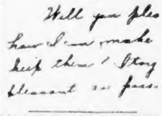
WINCHESTER GIRL'S WRITING ANALYZED

PRACTICAL OUTLOOK ON LIFE NEEDED, SAYS MISS RICE

By LOUISE RICE
Noted Graphologist

DEAR Miss Rice: Will you please tell me how I can make friends and keep them? I try to be as pleasant as possible, but still I can't keep friends, especially of the opposite sex.
MARGERY W., Winchester.



Will you plea
how I can make keep them? I try pleasant as poss.

Dear Margery—I suspect that you try too hard.

The truth of the matter is that there is a contrary quality about humans, and that the more you try to please some of them the less you can do it. How often you see the hard-working man or woman, anxious to please and make others happy, who is treated with complete disdain by the very people who should be thankful for the kindness shown them!

The trouble with most of us, Margery dear, is that the savage is still strong in us, and that the weak, the trusting and the anxious to please move us to impatience, if not worse.

APPRECIATIVE FRIENDS

I don't advise you to give up your fine ideals of conduct, so clearly shown in your handwriting, for you neither ought nor should but I do say that you should try to take a rather practical attitude toward all this and not allow yourself to be forced into the attitude of supplication. The moment that people do not seem to be interested in your friendship, quietly efface yourself from that vicinity. This very attitude will bring you happiness in appreciative friends, which the other will not.

Better try to train for some of the high grade work of carding, filing and office system in general. You have a very good mind and there is no reason why you should not have a successful and happy life.

IF a specimen of handwriting is composed of irregular letter formations and if the basic line is irregular and if the letters are changeable as to style, there would be a marked indication of an uncontrollable nature—if the "t" were also in keeping.

However, we often find a modest and very carefully made "t" in a writing which is full of irregularities, and when such is the case, we may be sure that there is sound common sense at the root of the character and that moderation does a great deal to mitigate the moodiness and changeableness of character.

"T" IMPORTANT

If the writing is even, well controlled and of an even rhythm then the well placed and well made "t," with the horizontal bar well placed, accentuates all the indications of moderation. It is to be noted that this matter of the "t" is more or less the accenting point in handwriting, and that a great deal can be told of the way in which the writer faces the problems of life by the way in which the "t" bar is placed and used.

WISE FUNERAL TOMORROW

The funeral of Augustus Wise, noted swimmer, will take place from the late home, 130 Stuart st., tomorrow m[illegible] at [illegible] o'clock followed by a requiem high mass at St. James Church at nine. Wise died at his [illegible] from a sudden heart attack. He was 52, a native of Hyde Park, and was connected with the book bindery trade.

He was one of the first presidents of the L Street Swimmers' Club. Among his achievements was his successful competition in the Boston Light swims of 1912 and 1913, also the Battery to Sandy Hook swim in New York in 1914.

Wonderfully familiar with the tide and currents of Boston Harbor, Wise was often called on to pilot other swimmers through its water in various contests of skill and endurance.

Rescue Hotel Guests In Spectacular Fire

Seattle, Jan. 11 (AP)—Thrilling rescues of guests featured a spectacular downtown hotel fire which was brought under control here today after destroying the Seneca Hotel and damaging the Victoria Hotel and adjacent buildings.

The persons trapped in their rooms in the Seneca were carried out unconscious, while the remainder of the 50 guests escaped before the firemen arrived. Most of those overcome by smoke were reached with fire ladders. No one was seriously hurt.

Film Actress Gets $7112 for Hurt Lip

Los Angeles, Jan. 11 (AP)—A motion picture actress' lips are "stock in trade," a Los Angeles judge said in awarding Thelma Gorman of the movies damages of $7112 from Kenneth Sanderson because her upper lip was marred in an automobile accident for which Sanderson was held responsible. Judge James H. Pope, who made the ruling, said:

"In this day and age a woman's lips are her stock in trade, especially if she is engaged in motion pictures."

$100,000 LOSS BY BLAZE IN WORCESTER

Worcester, Jan. 11—Damage of $100,000 was caused today by a spectacular two-alarm fire which destroyed a three-story factory building at 89 Exchange st., put three large manufacturing firms temporarily out of business, and threatened for a time to develop into a conflagration.

So menacing was the early spread of the flames that firemen were obliged to devote their greatest effort to the protection of surrounding buildings.

The blaze, which was of unknown origin, started on the top floor of the Exchange st. entrance. Although a second alarm was sounded within 10 minutes after the first, the fire department was unable to save the lower stories of the building.

The occupants of the burned structure were the Houghton Manufacturing Company, metal stampers; the Wakefield All Steel Lunch Company and the Worcester Woodworking Company. All three had plants equipped with costly machinery, which was a total loss.

The building itself was owned by the Merryfield estate.

SON OF FORMER AMHERST HEAD HELD IN PLOT

New York, Jan. 11 (INS)—How a once prominent attorney, the son of a former president of Amherst College, was enmeshed in the web woven by David Steinhardt, fugitive "Ponzo," who juggled United States receiverships, was revealed today.

Merrill E. Gates, Jr., the lawyer, under arrest in the widespread embezzlement plot, was to be arraigned in Federal court today.

His wife, Frances, disclosed that her husband's law business collapsed completely in the last six months.

Her husband is charged with being $10,000 short in his receivership of the bankrupt estate of J. Harold Rapp.

While police were closing in on the chief figure in the Steinhardt $2,000,000 swindle they claim to have found the actress Steinhardt is alleged to have associated with. His supposed cousin, Max Pinner, was delirious in Bellevue from self-inflicted wounds.

Pinner, a file clerk attached to the United States District court, had attempted suicide yesterday in the Federal Building after having been questioned by U. S. Atty. Tuttle.

Meanwhile an investigation into the entire case was being conducted by six judges. Gates is a son of the late Merrill E. Gates, Sr., former president of Amherst College, who retired in 1899 to live in Washington where he died.

Merrill, Jr., was graduated from Amherst in 1896. In 1923 he married Miss Frances Henry, daughter of Mrs. Douglas Henry of New York. During the war Gates served with the Seventy-seventh Division while his bride was overseas as a Red Cross worker.

Mail Airman Proves 'Flying Fire Alarm'

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 11 (AP)—Discovered—a one-man traveling fire alarm. The man is Gene Brown, who flies the night air mail between Atlanta and Richmond. Gene, far aloft, spots a fire. Then he swoops down just over the building, his wide open motor roaring an alarm. He has acted in this new capacity three times in two weeks.

Somerville Man Is Found Dead in Home

A light burning for two days in the Cedar st., Somerville, apartment of Charles L. Harrin, 69, a painter, led today to discovery of Harrin's body stretched on a couch. Medical Examiner Durrell pronounced death due to natural causes, and said Harrin had been dead for two days.

No Lasting Happiness in Marriage, Says Doctor

Berlin, Jan. 11 (INS)—"No marriage can mean permanent happiness," said Dr. Paul Bjerre, Swedish physician, in a lecture on "Evolution of Marriage" here.

Success of marriage depends upon ability of husband and wife constantly to renew and intensify their relations through frankness and honesty, he said.

Dr. Bjerre believes the ancient Romans were right when they recognized three distinct forms: The sacred marriage sanctified by a priest, which could be separated only by a priest; the freer civil marriage, and the so-called concubinage, which became a regular marriage if the woman spent less than three nights a year outside the house of her "man."

COLD AND CLEAR FOR WEEK-END

With a once-threatening blizzard in the Northwest now headed safely toward Labrador, Boston today faced the probability of a crisply cold but clear week-end.

The tail of the northern storm may flick southern New England with a light snowfall tonight, the Government forecasters said, but tomorrow ought to dawn fair.

From the Dakotas a moderate cold wave was sweeping in this direction, but thermometers were expected not to drop below 26 tonight.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Partly cloudy with probably some light snow tonight. Fair and colder Saturday. Moderate to fresh winds.

34 WOMEN ARE AIR PILOTS

Washington, Jan. 11 (AP)—On the first day of the year 5200 persons held authority from the Commerce Department to pilot airplanes, and 34 of the owners were women.

Of the total 2927 of the pilots held transport licenses, the highest grade of certificate for a civilian aviator, allowing them to engage in interstate commerce, 1165 were authorized to drive private machines, and 522 were limited commercial pilots. Two of the women ranked as transport pilots.

In the distribution of licenses among states California had 551, New York 472 and Massachusetts 103.

Rockefeller, Jr., Is Now In Gibraltar

Coolidge Entertains Members of Congress

Washington, Jan. 11—President and Mrs. Coolidge held their annual reception to members of Congress, the first White House social function of the New Year.

But two events remain on the social calendar at the executive mansion for the season—the annual Speaker's dinner, in honor of Speaker Longworth, January 17, and the army and navy reception, January 24.

Melrose Woman Contests Will

Laconia, N. H., Jan. 11—The jury in the case of Agnes W. Wiley of Melrose, Mass., against the estate of Sarah J. Roberts, late of Meredith, Bertram Blaisdell, executor, which was an appeal from the probate court and an action to set aside the will of the testatrix, returned a verdict in the superior court here for the defendant, sustaining the will.

Lack of Snow Dashes Lumbermen's Hopes

Bangor, Me., Jan. 11—A snowfall in this area promised for a time to relieve the growing serious situation of a snowless winter, which is greatly hampering many lumbering operations, where moving production depends upon snow roads.

But after a fall of some four inches the temperature went up rapidly, snow turning to rain, and the condition is practically the same as before.

STEWART WILL FIGHT BACK AT ROCKEFELLER

New York, Jan. 11 (INS)—Col. Robert W. Stewart, called "the fighting colonel," is going to live up to his soubriquette. Undaunted by the Rockefeller millions and the powerful Rockefeller influences, Col. Stewart plans to fight back with intense vigor the efforts of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to remove him from chairmanship of the board of directors of the great Standard Oil Company.

Wall street looks for its own financial battle of the century when forces are now being arrayed come to grips.

Col. Stewart leaves today for Chicago. Before he left Stewart made plain to friends and associates that he would fight bitterly. Rockefeller's plan to oust him as contained in yesterday's letter to the company's stockholders requesting proxies for the annual meeting to be used in a vote against Stewart.

Backed by powerful western financial interests, who have long been ardent admirers of Col. Stewart's record in building up the business of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and with the unsolicited support of thousands of small stockholders who have shared in its huge profits in recent years, the "fighting colonel" has been massing his forces for a battle which will culminate with the annual meeting of the company in March.

He is confident of success. Not onoly will he retain his chairmanship, according to his friends in Wall Street, but he will emerge from the struggle with larger prestige in the oil world as a whole.

Mr. Rockefeller's fight against Stewart dates from last February, after the colonel had made certain disclosures before the Senate committee investigating the oil scandals; but since Stewart was given a clean slate, both in the perjury and contempt charges, before federal juries, he feels that he has nothing to atone for and no further explantions to make.

Sonnenberg to Give Talk to Newsboys

"Dynamite Gus" Sonnenberg, world's champion heavyweight wrestler, will tell Boston newsboys tonight how, inspite of hard work and study, he kept his body fit enough to win him his football fame and his present laurels. He will emphasize the value of good physical condition.

Sonnenberg will be the principal speaker at an entertainment to be held for boys in the auditorium of the Harry E. Burroughs Newsboys' Foundation. Henry T. Jewett of the Repertory Theater will give readings from Shakespeare.

MOVE TO HALT DEPORTATION OF YOUTH

Another effort to seek revocation of the deportation order that will send William Fahey, 26, of Kingston Village, N. S., back to his former home, and permanently separate him from his mother and brothers and sisters, in Somerville will be made before the federal court.

Atty. Arthur D. Cooper has filed a petition for habeas corpus seeking a review of the acts of the department of labor in ordering Fahey deported.

The Fahey family, consisting of Mrs. Mary Fahey, William, Leo, James, Gregory, and Sadie, sold all their belongings at Kingston Village last fall, after the death of the father of the family, and embarked with their personal possessions for Boston.

WILLIAM REJECTED

The family was admitted, with the exception of William. He failed to pass the physical examinations and was rejected pending action by the department of labor. The other members of the family entered, and set up housekeeping at 23 Calvin st., Somerville.

They thought that William's difficulty would be adjusted, and that the separation would be brief. The department of labor, however, some time ago, sent through a deportation order. Mrs. Fahey told local immigration authorities that the boy, if deported, would have no home to go to, and begged that he be admitted. The plea was sent on to Washington, and a new deportation order answered it.

MOTHER IN COLLAPSE

Mrs. Fahey collapsed and now is in a serious condition. William was ordered to be ready to leave for Nova Scotia last night on the steamer Farnorth and was only saved from the journey by the action of Atty. Cooper in obtaining a court order holding him here pending a hearing on the habeas corpus application.

The Fahey family has offered to file a bond assuring the government that it will suffer no loss if William becomes a public charge, which they aver he will not. The offer was made because the government contended that its fear of admitting him was that he will become a public charge. The bond was refused, however, and unless the federal courts here take some favorable action, William will be deported.

HUB TO ENGLAND HOP PLANNED

A flight from Boston to England, to follow a non-stop hop from Los Angeles to this city, is the plan of Lieut. Commander Harry Lyon, navigating officer of the Southern Cross.

Lyon, speaking at a luncheon of the Aero Club of New England at the Boston City Club, made known some of the details.

He said that a plane is now being built for him at Pasadena, Cal., by the Hall Aircraft Construction Co., at a cost of $100,000.

The plane will have three engines. The persons who will accompany him on the flight are Mrs. Keith Miller and Capt. William Lancaster, who have already made a name for themselves in recent flights they have accomplished.

The flight from coast to coast, Lyon said, will be attempted in May, and the ocean hop will follow immediately.

Lieut.-Commander Lyon is doubtful as to whether the Boston Airport will be suitable for a landing for his machine, which is now about 60 per cent completed. He has looked over various landings around Boston, however, and stated that Nantasket Beach would be an ideal landing spot but for the schooner which is still on the beach where it was blown during a storm some time ago.

Buzzes Self Out as Chief Using Cops as 'Jack-in-Box'

Chicago, Jan. 11 (AP)—The reason Harry Stafford is no longer chief of police in Hinsdale, after three years at it, is that he pushed the buzzer too often.

The row of buzzer buttons on the chief's desk fascinated Stafford. He would press button No. 1 and a lieutenant dashed in. He would push No. 2 and a captain came. By executing a Glissando movement across the buttons he got the entire police force.

Complaint was made to the village board that the town's nine policemen were just doing a jack-in-the-box. Thereupon the board buzzed and out went the chief.

Surveys Animal Rescue League

Julian Codman, one of the senior directors of the Animal Rescue League, who has just been appointed chairman of the league's executive committee, is studying the affairs of the organization. This survey was ordered with a view to determining how best to fill the gap caused by the death of Mrs. Huntington Smith, for nearly 30 years head of the league.

Quart of Milk Puts Out Blaze

Portland, Ore., Jan. 11—Portland's fire department has been given a free lesson on how to put out a fire. When Capt. W. L. Hicks and his men from the Rose City station arrived at the scene of an automobile blaze at the home of J. H. Reeves, they discovered that Mrs. Reeves had extinguished the fire with a quart of milk.

"Recognition" of Minister Tonight

A service of recognition in place of the customary installation will be observed tonight by the members of the Central Congregational Church, Seaverns ave. and Elm st., Jamaica Plain, when the Rev. Thrilling Six-Day Novel by Pen of Famous Author

What Has Happened So Far

JEALOUS of another woman Molly Bain, high-spirited daughter of the West and sweetheart of Nick (Gash face) Bruzzi, gangster leader of a large American city betrays secrets of the bootlegging ring to a young election crusader, Gene Channing. Suspicious of Molly as the leak in the gang, Nick sets a trap. When she refuses to murder Channing Nick plans his assassination by a member of his gang. The police frustrate this plan and capture the gunman, but Nick now knows that Molly warned Channing. He gives her the choice of death at his hands or Channing's death at hers.

Colonial Wintergas

WHY—with ordinary "all-year" gas—do you have to pull out the choke and turn the engine over and over before you can get a kick out of it? Because ordinary gasoline cannot vaporize as readily in winter with a cold carburetor and motor, as in summer.

That's why we refined COLONIAL WINTERGAS especially for winter use!

COLONIAL WINTERGAS starts almost instantly—gets away without tedious "warming-up"—and responds with full power to every demand of the throttle—because it has been developed for best performance at temperatures—from freezing to 10 and 20 below.

COLONIAL WINTERGAS sells at the same price as ordinary gasoline

Foresight of Rickard Was Uncanny

By JACK DEMPSEY

Former World's Heavyweight Champion

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—Tex Rickard changed his mind about my size after I won the championship from the giant, Willard, at Toledo in 1919.

Before the fight he believed that no one in the world was large enough to [illegible] He [illegible] Willard's powerful physique [illegible] the ring.

[illegible]

"You sure are the best fighter I ever saw," he went on. "Imagine a little fellow like you knocking a big man like that around the ring.

"You've got a great future in this fight business. Just take care of yourself and we'll have plenty of work for you."

[illegible]

"Thanks, Tex," I said. "I'll be with you strong."

[illegible]

THIS brings up an outstanding factor in the make-up of Tex. He had more foresight than anyone I ever knew. [illegible]

[illegible]

Tex began planning my fight with Georges Carpentier long before it appeared that it would ever materialize. He had my sanction for the contest. But it was difficult for Tex to get in touch with the Frenchman.

[illegible]

Carpentier wanted $200,000 and I was asking $300,000. These two new associates of Rickard's were staggered. They felt that both fighters should be obtained for the sum Carpentier demanded. Our demands were unheard of purses at that time.

[illegible]

He did and it was the first million dollar fight. The first so-called "Battle of the Century". The contest was held in Boyle's Thirty Acres in New Jersey and the gate amounted to $1,600,000.

[illegible]

ONLY Tex's genius as a promoter and his great knowledge and understanding of human nature enabled this feat to be accomplished.

The World's Greatest HAIR and SCALP SPECIALISTS and SEVEN REASONS Why!

1 THEY POSITIVELY GROW HAIR! In many cases of baldness thought hopeless they have produced a growth of natural hair. They end dandruff, stop falling hair, and correct all abnormal scalp disorders.

2 THEY TREAT 87% OF ALL PERSONS being treated in the United States and Canada by Specialists for scalp disorders. In 1927 they successfully administered 321,562 treatments in their various offices.

3 THEY HAVE FORTY-FIVE OFFICES throughout the country all in charge of skilled specialists who do nothing but examine and treat all external scalp disorders which led to or have caused baldness.

4 FOR FIFTEEN YEARS they have successfully administered the Thomas' Original Discovery for baldness. This treatment is often imitated, but because secret formulae are a part of it it can only be given in a Thomas' office.

5 THEY ARE SCALP SPECIALISTS YOU CAN TRUST. If after a careful examination of your scalp they feel that they can do you no good, they will frankly tell you. Last year 1,732 applicants for treatment were refused.

6 BECAUSE OF THEIR ABILITY to consistently grow hair and live up to their advertised claims, they have been granted exclusive legal and moral right by the U. S. Patent Office to use the slogan, "WE GROW HAIR."

7 THEY TREAT MEN IN ALL WALKS OF LIFE including physicians, bankers, dentists, U. S. army officers, congressmen, actors, etc. Let them help YOU regain your natural head of hair.

Come in today for a free examination and let us show you that what we can do for others we can do for you! For Men Exclusively.

A Wife's Meditations

By HELEN ROWLAND

HAVE you noticed this general back-to-the-first-wife movement, which is gaining popularity among the men? Every day, at least one popular author or one prominent business man, divorces Number Two, in order to rush back to the arms of Number One! These returns to the custom [illegible] after a little matrimonial detour, are becoming positively faddish.

Just what this Indian Summer symptom is which makes a man in the middle or late forties imagine that his wife in the early forties is [illegible] for him and that a woman 20 years his junior would be more "on this type," is incomprehensible.

But the Indian Summer detour continues to flourish and the back-to-the-first-wife movement to follow it as the fish follows the [illegible]. Sometimes he is lured back to her by her remembered charms, but more often he is driven back to her by the disastrous experience with Number Two.

No former wife's attractions ever shine so brightly as they do when viewed through the [illegible] darkness of a man's disillusionment with another woman.

Remarrying the original wife is like slipping the foot out of a tight patent-leather dancing pump and into an old carpet slipper. And when a man reaches the point where he has to consider his own comfort [illegible] then, an old wife, like an old shoe, is a comfort and a joy!

A man soon finds that changing wives, like changing your occupation, requires constant readjustment. It is like [illegible] or a new set of [illegible] all the time!

An old ex-wife knows all his tastes and [illegible] She knows where the [illegible] and how to step around it.

She knows how he likes his grapefruit fixed, [illegible] in his shirt and his toast buttered and [illegible] to ask him WHY he is late.

She knows where he left his shaving [illegible] and where he put the tickets. She knows all his signals for going [illegible] and when he's "just [illegible]" and "doesn't mean it." And she knows when he's really [illegible] and when he's just [illegible] in the mouth and wants to be left ALONE.

Oh, yes, a [illegible] Indian Summer [illegible] has tried keeping step with the new decade and discovered that his knees are a little stiff and the sap is running low in his veins, there doesn't [illegible] long as [illegible] with whom he can RELAX!

And what is more [illegible] contented [illegible] a [illegible] and a satiated curiosity, who is content to curl up on the mat and STAY there!

HER HUSBAND'S AWFUL COUGH ANNOYED EVERYONE NEAR HIM

His Cough Worried Family—Ordinary Remedies Did Him No Good

COUGHED WORSE NIGHTS AND WHEN INDOORS

"My husband months ago saw a doctor who said he was all right but that cough clung to him night and day. He would come from outdoors into the house, Movie or Church and soon he would be hawking and coughing terribly and at night he was all stuffed up," declared Mrs. D. R. M.——.

"He even took Cod Liver Oil, although he hated it. I finally told our doctor who laughingly said 'Men are all alike and you can't blame him much, so go get him a big bottle of [illegible], which is a nice tasting [illegible] Cassia, Eucalyptus, [illegible] Moss and glycerine remedy, far better than Cod Liver Oil and works quicker.'

RESULTS WONDERFUL

"He used [illegible] so well he took a spoonful before meals until the whole bottle was gone. It not only stopped his cough—it built him up too. I never saw medicine work such wonders before. Children love to take it too."

A cough is dangerous this time of year. Well stocked druggists have [illegible] 50c or $1.00 [illegible] send a dollar bill to nationally famous Kerr Chemical Company, Brentwood, Md., for large bottle, parcel post.

The Story of a Girl who mistook thrills for love

A Fine New Serial That's Up-to-the Minute

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

MADGE SAYRE, young and pretty, awakens on the morning of her 21st birthday resenting the dingy New York apartment she shares with her father, an unsuccessful inventor. Madge craves thrills and unexpectedly finds one when she attends a party given by her friend, Frances Storrs, a business "bachelor girl." It is in the person of Carroll Dudley, handsome artist, aviator and "man about town." Carroll is impressed with Madge's youthful beauty and tells her he has been waiting to meet her all his life. Meanwhile the party becomes wilder. A week later Madge dines with Carroll at his studio apartment. Madge has her first thrill in an airplane when the engine stalls and the machine plunges toward the earth. After this experience Madge is supremely happy. Meanwhile Frances Storrs warns Madge of Dudley.

(Now Go on With the Story)

CHAPTER 3

FRANCES looked earnest [illegible] her desk at Madge.

[illegible]

His Manner Was Entirely Professional

To her relief his manner was entirely professional.

[illegible] beautiful [illegible] appear in the eyes of [illegible] artist [illegible] at a face like this [illegible]

'But,' He Rattled On, 'You Wanted To Look at the Stuff'

"But," he rattled on, "you wanted to [illegible] at the stuff [illegible]

[illegible] you justice because, you know [illegible] and here he came and knelt [illegible] looking [illegible] dining and [illegible] by posing for me [illegible]

Madge knew an almost uncontrollable [illegible]

[illegible] career? But you [illegible] one condition, Carroll? No [illegible] and I never [illegible] done! Promise? [illegible]

[illegible] I swear it, [illegible]

[illegible] stuff that I will not be able to do [illegible] to you."

'Never Break Your Word to Me,' Madge Warned as Hardy Entered

"Never break your word [illegible]" Madge warned him, as Hardy entered to [illegible] that lunch was [illegible] on [illegible] balcony.

[illegible] you know, once I have [illegible]

It was [illegible] a little [illegible] that Madge sat at lunch with [illegible] Wonder [illegible] beautiful [illegible] as tied under an awning on a balcony that overlooked the green of Central Park. [illegible] more wonderful to have it in her power to [illegible] an artist, to help him climb to heights as yet unrealized! And added to all this the [illegible] very presence gave her made that luncheon a memorable repast.

"[illegible]," Carroll instructed at the end of lunch, "you can go out [illegible]"

Madge smiled gratefully.

"No one can enter the studio," Carroll explained, "from the servants' quarters once one door is closed, but I thought you would [illegible] I sent [illegible] out. Now [illegible] on [illegible] purple [illegible] up to that room [illegible] up there—a new [illegible] that I ordered especially for you."

As Madge went up to the little staircase, leading to the [illegible], there was a little glow of appreciation in her heart for Carroll's thoughtfulness.

Slowly she undressed, surveying her reflection in a huge mirror. She imagined that loveliness captured on canvas, and while she was [illegible] at the same time the [illegible] remained.

She wrapped herself in the [illegible] of black velvet [illegible] to be [illegible] made her way back to the studio.

Cautiously, Madge descended three of the stairs. Then she [illegible] the black velvet [illegible] One foot [illegible] step above [illegible] It was not too late to retreat.

[illegible] steps down and again [illegible] But then Carroll [illegible] was different. [illegible] with sudden determination, Madge ran down the rest of the stairs and entered the studio where Carroll was waiting her.

To her relief, his manner was entirely professional. He hardly seemed to glance at her, and it was obvious that at the moment he was an artist, [illegible] mere man [illegible]

"I think I would like to have you sitting on that couch," he said quietly. "Just rest easily on it, one arm above your head. You see what a gorgeous royal purple that silk is, and I think it will make a very striking background."

Obediently, Madge reclined on the purple couch, and Carroll was careful not to come near her. Instead, he stood behind his easel and issued instructions of exactly how he wanted Madge to pose. A little to the [illegible]. The right arm a little nearer the wall. He made it an absolutely [illegible] proceeding, so that shyness and embarrassment left her, and she began to wonder why she had made such a fuss about such a very [illegible] affair.

For half an hour or more as the pose was an easy one to hold, Carroll worked busily with charcoal, [illegible] in the outlines of the figure. Then he paused.

"Let's rest," he suggested and Madge gathered the cloak again [illegible] reflecting that in it she was more modestly dressed than she would have been in a swimming suit on a beach.

She got up from the couch and moved towards the easel.

"Can I see?" she asked.

"It won't do you any good," he smiled. "Look if you want to. But it won't be interesting until I begin with oils. I would prefer that you didn't see it until it is nearly finished."

"All right, then. Have it your own way." [illegible]

[illegible]

Madge gets a terrific shock in tomorrow's installment of this thrilling story.

The Rise of Lotta Crabtree to Fame on Stage

By CONSTANCE ROURKE

CHAPTER 32

The Crabtrees remained in England for nearly a year. Presently She Came Out in Zip, Or, the Point Lynde Light

Presently she came out in Zip, or the Point Lynde Light, which she played with her own admixture of melodrama and extravaganza with an acrobatic touch. In the opening scene the merry Zip bounds from a great fish basket singing [illegible] both the banjo and the [illegible] and later comes upon the old light house-keeper, her guardian, all but dead at the hand of wreckers.

A ship bearing treasure—and Zip's unknown mother—is to strike the rocks, and indeed tacks into plain view on a practical sea with roaring waves in motion, roaring thunder, streaks of lightning and the wrongfully lit lamps of the wreckers off stage. Zip seizes a long rope of the breeches buoy that hangs from a mast, and with a swift run out over the rocks flings herself across a deep and perilous strait —landing with easy step at the door of the lighthouse, she lights the lamp, saves the [illegible] two remaining [illegible] of another set of villains [illegible]

VALUE OF SIMPLICITY

By LUCY LOWELL

HAVE you ever considered the value of simplicity? The thing that is true and fine and efficacious, the thing which rises to heights of greatness, always is essentially the simple thing. That it may appear otherwise means nothing, for simplicity itself forever looks complicated to the average human mind set to a merely superficial examination of motives and methods.

The greatest characters, men and women, always have been simple at heart and more often than not history has marveled at this that those who easily reach lofty achievements could be so unassuming, interested in small things, with little or no vanity.

But if you will give the matter thought, I believe you will agree with me that these persons were great because they were simple; being honest and plain they wasted neither thought nor energy cluttering their lives and their work with the gestures which lesser ones use to erect a false front of importance. Thus they were able to go straight to the mark, unimpeded by non-essentials.

Only the other day I witnessed a mediocre workman undertake a piece of work. He made a great thing of it, talking endlessly about the risks and possibilities of the job, considering various modes of procedure, ranting about technique.

He labored endless hours over the thing, only to fail rather spectacularly in the end.

The job then was passed along to another, one who said little but took hold with the sure touch of the master. And as if by magic the task was accomplished almost at once.

"How did you do it so easily?" I asked him.

"Merely by following out the simplest method I could think of," he answered.

"But only an expert could have done that!" I protested.

"To be expert is to be simple," he answered, smiling.

Which, of course, is true.

It is worth thinking about, this matter of simplicity.

BAER FACTS

by Arthur "Bugs" Baer

MR. HOOVER, our first sailor President, is back again.

Herbert is tanned by tropical banquets and bronzed by good-will speeches.

He immediately plunged into an executive session with President Cal on the steps of the White House.

It was a friendly contest. As Mr. Coolidge had nothing to say, Mr. Hoover had to agree with him.

The conversation was sparse. The nodding was about even.

They might have spoken something like this:

"How are you feeling, Mr. Coolidge?"

"Glad to see you, Herbert. You are back early, aren't you?"

"Well, I don't want to seem hasty."

"That's all right, Herbert. How are you feeling?"

"I don't like that question, Cal. My Vice-President has already asked me that six or seven times."

"Do me a favor, will you, Herbert?"

"Sure, Cal."

"Don't blame anything on the last administration."

"Speaking about March fourth, Cal—"

"You forget that next month is only February."

"What would you suggest, Mr. Coolidge?"

"Well, I think you took the wrong trip. You should have been with Commander Byrd."

"When we ride up Pennsylvania avenue, Cal., you don't—"

"Go ahead, Herbert."

"Well, you don't mind riding in the rumble seat, do you?"

"Not at all. Call again some time."

"Thanks."

"You're welcome any time up until March fourth."

"Good-bye, Cal."

"So long, Herbert. Look out for that doormat with 'Welcome' on it. That has tripped many a sucker."

3-MINUTE TRIPS

By TEMPLE MANNING.

"NEW ZEALAND? New Zealand? M-m-m. Let me see. Yes. I know it is part of the Australian archipelago, but I don't know much about it. It is rather like Australia, isn't it? A more or less flat country with a lot of sheep-raising and the like?" This, we can say, is a typical answer to the question, "What do you know about New England."

New Zealand is divided into two main parts given the uninspiring names of North Island and South Island. This time I am going to tell you something about North Island, and in one of my future travelogues I'll go south to the South Island. By the way, don't forget that "going south" in New Zealand is something far different from going south in United States. The whole country is in the southern hemisphere and going south there means heading toward colder weather.

Auckland is the chief city of North Island, and was formerly the seat of the Dominion Government which later was transferred to Wellington at the southern extremity of the same island. But Auckland is a city, and while an interesting one, let us not stop there, but go south to the so-called thermal region of which Rotorua is the city. Rotorua is located at the end of the lake which bears the same name, and is noted as a watering place. The Government, several years ago, built a magnificent bathhouse where the many varieties of mineral waters may be indulged in. Not only are they particularly beneficial as baths, but from a number of the springs flow waters which have decided medicinal value when taken internally.

The entire thermal region around Rotorua is dotted with hot springs, geysers and other evidences of the great heat generated within the earth and, at this point, so near the surface. Lake Rotomahana, a part of this region, is the site of the old Pink and White terraces. These terraces, covering some 6600 acres, gradually became covered with water, but the heat which caused the earth to spew forth its mineral charged waters and thus build up the terraces, is unabated. As the little launch crosses Lake Rothomahana its waters often boil, so great is the heat just a few feet below the surface.

Rotorua is, more or less, the center of the Maori life. In my next article I am going to tell you something about them. In the meanwhile, I am showing you a sketch of some of the women doing their laundry work at the hot springs.

FAMOUS LOVERS

By LOZETTE DOUGLASS

THE story of Tristan and Iseult and their tragic love, is so well-known that it hardly needs retelling. But the romance of it never fails to appeal to the imagination.

The story goes that Tristan, early orphaned, was brought up by the seneschal of the kingdom and educated in all the courtly and chivalrous arts of the day. He was accomplished in everything that, in those days, made for popularity and appealed to those to whom Tristan was a hero. But his imagination so often ran away with him that he was forever getting into trouble. The truth was something to be played with and Tristan made havoc with his toy.

When he was but a boy, pirates who had been attracted by tales of his marvelous gifts, kidnaped him, but on being beset with fearful storms while at sea, determined to rid themselves of him and consequently put him ashore on the coast of Cornwall. From there Tristan made his way to the court of his uncle, King Mark. Here it was that his gift for romancing made itself manifest.

Cornwall being at the time subject to the King of Ireland, Tristan established his position by killing in a duel the messenger sent to collect tribute. During the duel, Tristan is wounded with a poisoned dagger, and no one but Iseult, the Queen of Ireland, knew the secret which would cure him. Tristan had himself placed in a boat with his harp and started for Ireland. On landing there, he told the queen that he was a minstrel and as such was tenderly cared for and healed by the queen and her daughter, also named Iseult.

After he was thoroughly recovered, Tristan set forth for his native land, pretending that he had a wife. On his return to Cornwall, he was greeted with joy, as he had been given up for lost.

The king persuaded Tristan that he should marry the princess Iseult, and he left for Ireland to demand her hand. Arriving there he killed the dragon which had been devastating the country, but the seneschal of the court, leaving Tristan for dead, cut off the dragon's head and taking it to court persuaded the King and the Queen that he had killed the dragon. He demanded the hand of the Princess. Going secretly to the scene of the dragon's slaying, the Queen and the Princess find Tristan whom they bring back to court. Identifying Tristan as the man who had slain their messenger to Cornwall, the princess determined to kill him, but was deterred by her mother. After the story of his slaying of the dragon is told, Tristan's masquerade was forgiven and he asked for the princess' hand. His request was granted, and he sailed for his native Cornwall with the princess and her retinue. During the voyage, a love potion which had been prepared for the young couple to drink on their wedding night was quaffed by the Queen Iseult and Tristan, who immediately fell most desperately in love.

Their love was suspected but everything was done to excuse them as it was beyond their control. Finally, Tristan believing himself forgotten by the Queen, wedded the daughter. A poisoned arrow struck him and he sent for the Queen. It was agreed that if she be on the ship, a white sail was to be used. If she could not come, a black sail was to be hoisted. His wife overheard the plot when the ship came into sight, told Tristan, who could not see from his bed, that the ship carried a black sail. Despairing of ever seeing his love again, Tristan died. The Queen was hastening to her lover's aid, and on arrival finding only his dead body, she threw herself on the bier, and with one last embrace, expired.

Legend has it that when the two were buried, a sapling sprang from the heart of Tristan and made its way to the heart of Iseult, and no matter how often it was cut down, immediately grew again.

A beautiful love story, which has been immortalized by song and story. Truly one of the greatest romances of the ages.

DONIZETTI OPERA

THE UNITED OPERA Company will present "Lucia Di Lammermoor" in their Columbia broadcast tonight at 10:00 o'clock Eastern standard time. This opera by Donizetti is in three acts, and is taken from Scott's novel, "The Bride of Lammermoor." The scene is laid in Scotland, and the first production was given at Naples in 1835.

AFGHAN RULER ABANDONS HIS REFORM PLAN

New Delhi, India, Jan. 11 (AP)—Publication of a proclamation in an Afghan newspaper today revealed that King Amanullah of Afghanistan had yielded to the rebels who have been fighting him, in withdrawing nearly the whole program of his Western reforms.

Afghan girls sent to Turkey to be educated are to be recalled, the Purdah, or seclusion of women, system is to be restored, conscription is to be withdraw, women's associations are to be closed, European dress is discarded and soldiers are permitted in the future to become followers of holy men or "Pirs."

The proclamation was signed by King Amanullah, by various tribal chiefs and by Hazart Sahib who was released from prison by the King recently after having been arrested for his anti-reform views.

In addition to the withdrawal of the westernization program, a council of 50 notables will be formed, including the clergy, sirdars or nobles and officials, to amend the law according to the moslem code and to review decisions of the newly-constituted assembly and council of provincial representatives.

SMITH IS AGAIN ON RADIO

New York, Jan. 11 (INS)—Former Governor Al Smith will broadcast another message to the American people next Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. over the "Red" Network of the National Broadcasting Company. He is not ready to reveal his subject, he said today.

French Liner Faces $70,000 Liquor Fine

New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—Customs agents hunting smuggled narcotics among freight on transatlantic piers along the Hudson discovered 3540 gallons of whiskey malt on the French line pier, where it had been unloaded from the Ile de France. The agents declared the malt was equivalent to 22,000 quarts of bootleg scotch and that the French liner faces a penalty of $70,800. The malt was not on the ship's manifest.

Jobless Man Batters Door 10 Downing St.

London, Jan. 11 (AP)—An unemployed man, who had walked to London from Yorkshire, was arrested today for throwing a stone at the door of 10 Downing st., famous official home of Great Britain's prime ministers.

Prime Minister Baldwin was in his office at the time. The only damage was to the paint on the door.

RADIO RIB TICKLERS

WLW—This one came all the way from Cincinnati, and Martin Shanahan of Lowell wants to share it with the world.

"Do you believe in a hereafter?"
"Sure I do."
"Do you remember the five dollars I loaned you?"
"I do."
"Well, that's what I'm here after."

WJZ—Theresa Joyce of Collinsville thinks this one deserves a dollar:

"The new automobiles are coming out with a variety of colors."
"Yes but the poor pedestrian must be satisfied with black and blue."

Send in to the Boston Evening American Radio Department the best jokes and amusing incidents which you hear over the radio. For every contribution printed, a prize of One Dollar will be sent to the writer.

CASASSA NOW A 'REPORTER'

Mayor Andrew A. Casassa of Revere was elected the first honorary member of the North Suburban Press Club at a business meeting of the organization in the Chelsea Y. M. C. A. which followed a theater party given by the management of the Broadway Theater, Chelsea.

A. A. Casassa

The meeting was largely attended and one of the most enthusiastic held by the club. Following the business meeting Mayor Casassa spoke. He expressed his desire to co-operate with the North Suburban Press Club and during the course of his talk told members that he had donated the use of the council chamber in Revere City Hall for any meeting or socials held by the club. He also issued complimentary tickets to the various rides on Revere Beach to the members of the club.

On the motion of Francis P. (Tip) O'Neill, president of the club, Mayor Casassa was elected the first honorary member of the organization.

Plans were made for a ladies' night in February. Miss Ethel Brown, treasurer, was named chairman of the committee. The North Suburban Press Club is made up of newspaper publishers, editors, reporters, cameramen, and artists who either reside or work in this district made up of the cities of Revere, Chelsea, and Everett, the town of Winthrop and the section of East Boston. Sidney Curtis, Revere and Lynn newspaperman, also spoke during the evening.

J. P. Morgan Places Order for New Yacht

New York, Jan. 11—Henry J. Gielow, Inc., announced that J. P. Morgan has placed an order with the Bath Iron Works at Bath, Me., for a new yacht closely resembling his yacht Corsair. The Gielow firm designed the new vessel, which is to be delivered in January, 1930.

JANNINGS TAKES ROLE ADOLPH REFUSED

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1929, Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11—"The Concert" was turned down coldly but firmly by Adolphe Menjou. This debonair Menjou's refusal to play the hero in the play in which Leo Ditrichstein starred on the stage didn't hurt anyone's feelings because there was always doubt whether it was a typical Menjou vehicle.

SOMEONE was right, for now Emil Jannings will be starred in "The Concert," and no one by the wildest stretch of imagination could accuse Menjou and Jannings of having any similarity of tempo or characterization.

"THE Concert" may be a talkie. If it is no matter, for Jannings can jabber broken English to his heart's content, for the hero is a foreigner. Florence Vidor, originally slated as Menjou's leading woman, will do the same service for Jannings. Being the wife of the famous violinist, Jascha Heifetz, Miss Vidor ought to be able to play her part with real feeling.

RAOUL WALSH has returned to Hollywood after an operation in New York in which he lost his right eye. The sight of the left eye is not impaired in the slightest and the New York surgeons assured him that there is no danger. Raoul is in a philosophical mood. He is grateful that he is not to be blind and he says he has learned to make his left eye do double duty. William Fox sent for him at the time of the tragic accident in which a rabbit, dashing through a windshield, splintered the glass and cut Walsh's face severely, and injured his eye. The best surgeons were employed in New York and it was upon their advice that the sight optic was removed.

Raoul will begin work on "The Cock-Eyed World" March 1 with Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe. Dorothy Burgess is being strongly considered for the part originally intended for Dolores Del Rio.

FOX and Madge Bellamy have parted company. Miss Bellamy has not yet been heard from, and there are always two sides to every disagreement, but at the Fox studio they say she is temperamental. Temperamental is a word that covers a multitude of sins and can be interpreted in many ways. Maybe Miss Bellamy will have something to say on her own side, but at any rate she is no longer the prima donna of the Fox Company. Her successor is said to be Mary Duncan.

"BAD GIRL" was a sensational novel. Vina Delmar, the author, wrote a story of a modern girl that is different. The psychology of this amazing youngster interested people not given to spending time reading about the young people of this day. William Le Baron has signed Miss Delmar to repeat herself for FBO in an original story called "Dance Hall." Miss Delmar will not come to Hollywood. She was sought out in the small town in which she lives and invited to write this story.

THE ingenues of Hollywood can take heart. Charlie Chaplin himself denies that he is to marry Georgia Hale. "What am I to do?" asks Charlie wistfully. "I can't go out with a girl without everyone saying I am about to slip a wedding ring on her finger. 'It's unfair to the girl and it's unfair to me. I do take Miss Hale out. I think she is charming but I also take other young women to the theatre and to dinner."

Charlie, it is said, was out dancing with a Spanish actress only night before last. But the Georgia Hale rumor has been pretty prevalent in film circles with the report that Charlie and Miss Hale would be married almost any day now. "Never again will I marry," says Charlie solemnly raising his right hand. Many men have said that before.

OUR California romances are as plentiful as the California sunshine. The rumor hounds just got through engaging Buddy Rodgers to Claire Windsor and insisting that one of these days they would get married when suddenly Claire started appearing everywhere with Grant Withers. Young Withers is the leading man discovered by Corinne Griffith and later signed by Warner Brothers on a long term contract. He has consistently forged ahead. I am not saying there is an agreement yet, however. Young Withers comes from Colorado and that is where Claire Windsor lived for a time.

WHEN you get in Eddie Cantor's class you can say when, why and how you make your movies. Paramount wants Eddie for two sound pictures. Having seen him in a sketch a la talkie you can't blame them for going out and signing him up. He has agreed to make two, one of them called "The Birth of the Blues" with music by George Gershwin, the other story still to be written. They will be made when Cantor finishes the run of "Whoopee" in which he is starring. Although the pictures will be made in the East Eddie does not intend to work both night and day. Sensible, isn't he?

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Charlotte Greenwood entertaining at luncheon at the Montmartre. Marion Davies at the same place, wearing all black. Winifred Dunn interviewing Luther Reed of FBO on a story she is to write, her first since her marriage to Harold Schwartz. Lupe Velez feeding a huge eagle sent by Gary Cooper. June Collyer taking a look at "Red Wine," her latest picture. Claire Windsor lunching with Grant Withers. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

FINE PROGRAM BY SOPRANO

By MOSES SMITH

Isabel Richardson Molter, soprano, gave a song recital at Jordan Hall last night. Assisted by Harold Molter at the piano, she sang Mozart's aria, "Dove sono," from "Figaro," two songs each by Georges and Schubert, "Melancholy" by Mertsanto, "Sailing" by Olsen, three Greig songs, and four American numbers at the end.

Miss Molter made a notable impression on this writer when she sang here last year. On the present occasion there was evidenced the same intelligence, musical and dramatic, which renders her a first rate interpreter. Her voice has grown in power—at least it was more robust last night than a year ago.

Otherwise, Miss Molter has not progressed; rather it seems to us she has retrograded. Aside from the Mozart aria, Miss Molter did not sing with her previous artistry. There was much distasteful "scooping" of tones, tendency to force the voice, and, especially late in the program, inartistic breaking of phrases. The singer seemed too sure of herself—an unusual criticism for a young performer.

In her effort to sing freely, to be at ease, Miss Molter has gone to the opposite extreme of exaggerating, of striving for "effects." These objectionable features were only slight, in evidence early in the program, but increased in number until in the American songs Miss Molter tended to become a ballad-singer.

The audience, which was enthusiastic must have discovered in William Arms Fisher's "I Heard a Cry," virtues inaudible to our insensitive ears, for it applauded until the singer repeated it. The other American songs were no better. Only a stupid convention could have accounted for their appearance on a serious program.

Fishermen Rescue 3 From Drowning

Providence, Jan. 11 (AP)—Three Woonsocket young men were saved from almost certain death by drowning in Narragansett Bay when two Connecticut fishermen half a mile away on shore heard their faint cries for help and went out to rescue them after their small boat capsized off Conimicut Light.

The men rescued were James N. Cadoret, R. A. Gagnon and Adrian Drouin. Cadoret, who of the three was in the most serious condition, lost consciousness shortly after being taken from the water. Later he was revived. The two others are suffering from exhaustion.

Loyalists Would Sue U. S. for 5 Billion

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 11 (AP)—United empire loyalists have taken action designed to press claims of approximately $5,000,000,000 against the United States for lands lost by confiscation after the revolutionary war. The Toronto branch of the organization adopted a resolution proposing that the British Government offer to abrogate the clause in the treaty of Paris of 1783, which provided for the recovery of the lands of the Loyalists, some of which lie in large American cities. In return for the abrogation of this clause, the resolution requested that the Loyalists giving up their claims should be reimbursed by the sum of $5,000,000,000.

Found Dazed After Fall From Window

James W. Hutchins, 72, of Bigelow st., Cambridge, was taken to Cambridge City Hospital today after police found him wandering in night clothes in the vicinity of his home.

It is believed that he fell from a bedroom window on the first floor. He sustained a possible fracture of the skull.

Gets Paris Divorce

Paris, Jan. 11 (AP)—A decree of divorce has been registered in favor of Jeanne Eveline Artus Coane from James Edwin Coane. Mr. Coane's residence was given as 113 Buckingham rd., Upper Montclair, N. J.

RETIRING STORE OFFICIAL IS FETED

A gray-haired man who in 1895 brought references with him and obtained employment in R. H. White's department store, stood last night before 270 co-workers and was cheered and heard his work acclaimed.

Thirty-three years ago Herbert F. Russell, now store manager and director of the company, was described as a youth "strictly honest and satisfactory in the highest degree." And again he heard himself appointed as the "squarest, fairest, finest and kindest man" in the store.

Retiring from active business Russell was tendered this testimonial friendship dinner by those whom he served and who served him. The dinner was held in the Modernistic Ballroom of the Hotel Brunswick.

PRAISED BY SPEAKERS

Short tributes to Russell by his fellow workers were summed up in a short address by the only outsider present, Neil Scanlon, whose aunt was employed under Russell in Worcester for 15 years and whose mother is now employed by the R. H. White Co., pointed out the everlasting value of friendship, as built by Russell, in a time when the individual and personality became more and more submerged in the demands of organization.

R. H. White employes were sorry to see the man they loved leave them, but they were happy because he was happy.

Because of his high regard for the store members, a parchment in book form, with autographs of more than 1000 employes was presented to Russell.

MRS. RUSSELL ILL

To Mrs. Russell, unable to attend the dinner because of illness, 15 long-stemmed roses, "a rose for each year of service her husband had given the store," were sent to her home.

Russell worked in the R. H. White store for four months in 1895, and then left Boston to work for Denholm McKay Co. in Worcester. After serving them 15 years he returned to White's and his completion of 18 years of service with them over he retired.

He reminisced in his talk, touching on matters so dear to the hearts of employes and then talked of the change of organization.

Under the circumstances of the sale, he said, he would have had White's go into no other hands than Wm. Filene's Sons Co. He praised that department store and assured the workers that the new affiliation would bring unbounded opportunities.

The committee in charge included J. Fitzpatrick, G. Nichols, H. Humbert, S. Balcom, W. Valade E. Lagerstrom, H. Tetlow, G. Davis, M. Dunne, L. Camia Hawkins, M. O'Neill, R. Tweedie, chairman, and Harold Humphreys, store personnel manager, toastmaster.

TEXAS SLAYER IS EXECUTED

Huntsville, Tex., Jan. 11 (AP)—Floyd Newton Byrnes, chauffeur, who killed three women members of the family for which he worked at San Angelo in March, 1927, paid with his life in the electric chair at the State penitentiary here today.

His victims were Myrna Juergens, her mother, Mrs. W. J. Juergens, and Myrna's grandmother, Mrs. Rosa Schirra. Byrnes was tried only for the killing of the girl. His defense was that he was under the influence of liquor when he mutilated the women with a hatchet.

Ask Congress to Protect U. S. Ships

New York, Jan. 11 (AP)—The American Steamship Owners Association today decided to ask Congress to enact legislation to prevent an invasion by foreign lines.

The action was precipitated by the recent placing of the Caronia of the Cunard line in the New York-Havana traffic in competition with the Ward line and came just before the arrival in New York of the President Roosevelt and teh Caronia, the two ships whose competition for the Havana trade has aroused American and British circles.

Important Measure

Congress Must Pass Reapportionment Bill Now, or Go on Record as Again Nullifying the Constitution

Leaders of the House will try to pass this week the bill for that reapportionment of Representatives in Congress which the Constitution declares shall be made every 10 years.

For eight years Congress has deliberately violated both the letter and the spirit of this mandate of the Constitution. Instead of setting an example in obedience to the organic law of the land our Representatives in Congress have flaunted before the American people THE MOST GLARING EXAMPLE OF LAWLESSNESS ANYWHERE TO BE FOUND UNDER THE FLAG.

And the worst of it is that for this indefensible nullification of the Constitution Congress is without a semblance of legitimate excuse. Its dereliction of duty in this regard is solely due to THE WANTON SELFISHNESS OF THOSE MEMBERS OF CONGRESS WHOM A REAPPORTIONMENT MIGHT RETIRE TO PRIVATE LIFE.

Had Congress made a new apportionment in 1921, following the census of the preceding year, certain States would have lost one or more Representatives to which they are no longer entitled.

But the refusal of Congress to carry out its Constitutional duty and make a new apportionment in 1921 has deprived certain other States of the additional Representatives to which they are entitled.

In other words, a number of Representatives in Congress today are occupying STOLEN SEATS. Their occupancy of seats to which they are no longer entitled under the Constitution makes of the Lower House of Congress AN UTTERLY UNCONSTITUTIONAL BODY.

Now the people of the several States are not responsible for this nullification of the Constitution. They are just as loyal to the principle of representative government as they ever were. They are just as jealous of the honor of their respective States as they ever were. They are just as proud of the American system of government as they ever were

The blame for this disgraceful proceeding by which some 13,000,000 people in this country are today denied that fair and equitable representation in Congress for which the Constitution provides rests squarely upon the shoulders of those sordid politicians on both sides of the aisle of the House WHO HAVE HELD THEIR SEATS BY LYNCHING THE CONSTITUTION.

Any member of the House, Republican or Democrat, who opposes that reapportionment for which the Constitution provides, misrepresents, as we have the faith to believe, the people of his Congressional district, whether it be North, East, South or West: For the American people the country over believe in representative government and are ready to support that fair and equitable representation for which the Constitution provides.

If the members of the Seventieth Congress are not ashamed of the way in which Congress has evaded its responsibility since 1920 they ought to be.

Certainly the country is ashamed of the present Congress and its immediate predecessors whose members, by refusing the country a reapportionment, HAVE BROKEN THEIR CONGRESSIONAL OATHS AND SHIRKED THEIR CONSTITUTIONAL DUTY.

The least the present House can do to right the injustice which Congress has inflicted upon the country is to provide for a Constitutional reapportionment now. And the House would further provide, as far as it can, against the humiliating history of the last eight years of unconstitutional representation ever repeating itself.

As [illegible] moon's dark side—the other side—we know nothing. But the scientists want to know EVERYTHING.

Hence the effort to send a photographic rocket that would

New York Day by Day
by
O.O.McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—Thoughts while strolling: Those rare window displays at Saks. Norman Bel-Geddes stuff. Benign white haired gentlemen who growl if you get in their way. Baby doll faces with serpent wise eyes. The kind who are always being insulted at apartment house parties.

Blanche Ring's happy smile. Heywood Broun with a fresh haircut. Earl Carroll's angelic expression. Fifth Avenue restaurant offers chili. And why not. Something sad about the stark-naked trees in Central Park. But the robins will soon be tugging worms again. Tra la!

Wonder what the bus checkers who stand in doorways do with their reports. Tappe, the man milliner from Sidney, O. Zero in comedy—those comedians who bark like dogs at dogs on leashes. Something depressing about bugle call. Hatless boys with pipes who rush madly along. Those unctious husbands of rich women.

All night beauty parlors that open at 4 p. m. And the bright ladies who leave them so cosmetically bedecked for the evening. The bandbox gyp theatrical agencies. Grantland Rice, a Murfreesboro, Tenn., boy, who made good in the city. Sign: "Madame Finnigan—Gowns."

Whatsbecame of the craze for bois de rose? The hotel starter who is a striking image of Lloyd George. Times Square-heads. Barney Gallant has become Bernard in the telephone book. The boys who play bridge and dance expertly in this town do not need to work. Abject beggars who work the limousines.

Wonder if drug stores still employ pharmacists. Never a time in New York when the streets are not torn up. Still it furnishes a lot of work for the Tammany boys. Rita Weiland and her husband. Overheard: "She lives in the snootiest block on Park Avenue." Which block is that?

Wish I could sit down at a piano and touch off one of those rippling little airs. Or discuss poetry and art in a careless easy way. Instead of sitting like a statue. And just as inarticulate. Ina Claire stepping out of the Ritz. Those stooped and venerable messenger "boys."

NEW YORK'S largest hat store is said to pay a $250,000 yearly rental for its new location on the avenue and has more than a dozen display windows. Aside from its main salon there is also a department on the second floor. New Yorkers are, according to population, the most prolific buyers of hats. The heaviest buyer, next to Tom Mix, who actually buys a car load at a time, is a wealthy Montana mine owner who wears a beaver Alpine shaped hat that sells for $60 each. He buys them in dozen lots.

WORD comes to Broadway that George Rector is now directing the cuisine for a railroad with headquarters in Chicago. He conducts his school of cooking in an especially built dining car.

WITH the exception of Mr. Rector, nearly all the old restauranters along the Broadway of 20 years ago, have fallen on evil days. They were able to make huge fortunes but not able to keep them. One other notable exception is the proprietor of one of the best known establishments.

He had the foresight to acquire a 99-year lease on a prominent Broadway corner at a small yearly rental. Since that time stupendous offers have been made for his leasehold on the building. But he is the victim of a Broadway weakness—playing the ponies.

And he feared to have the entire sum in a lump. He desired to protect his children in case anything happened. When Broadway "went Chinese" his place became an Oriental cafe. He retired but is assured of an income of more than $50,000 a year until the lease expires.

JOEL RINALDO, who ran the famous "Joel's" back of the Metropolitan, catering to literary night owls and theatrical folk, quit with a snug fortune at the top of his success. He wanted seclusion to write ponderous tomes about polygeneric theories—as though everybody who is anybody does not know about them.

FROM a Mills Hotel: "People told me I could become a great writer and here I am." Sometimes even your best friends won't tell you.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

ARDIS and Art, aged 19 and 29 respectively, have been giving the well-known Human Race the once-over and they think it can stand a lot of improvement.

After mature consideration they have decided that we are, generally speaking, a bunch of convention-ridden, compromising cowards.

"Why do people have to act alike?" they ask.

Why can't they Be Themselves?

Why are they so afraid of what other people will say?

Isn't it possible to defy convention and yet make a success of life?

It is.

It is possible to violate all public opinion and yet attain both fame and fortune. Whereupon the very people who have criticized you most severely will rise up and call you blessed. This feat has been performed by various persons in every generation. In fact, the most distinguished characters in history have acted in this high-handed manner.

All of which will be glad tidings to Ardis and Art.

BUT—there's a price to pay for such emancipation from the common thralldom. And it's such a very big price that the majority of human beings have neither the courage nor energy to pay it.

Conventionality may be a rather dull affair, but there's a sound reason for it. It is the concentrate of millions of years of human experience. Most of us are neither very brave nor very bright. We're not prepared to lead dangerous or eccentric lives. So we've banded together and made a code which makes life possible, pleasant and profitable for the greatest number of people. This code we call convention.

It is, I admit, rather a stupid code, but it is all that most of us can handle, and naturally we resent those who imperil our safety by defying it

You CAN be different, Art and Ardis, but you'll find it the loneliest job on earth.

You CAN be your own boss, if you're willing to pay your own way and take your own risks.

You CAN do without other people —IF YOU'RE ABLE TO STAND HAVING THEM DO WITHOUT YOU.

But you mustn't expect the benefits of a conventional life and the thrills of an unconventional one. You can't have your cake and eat it, too. If you're going to take other people's money and use other people's strength you must respect their system.

There's the whole case for and against unconventionality. It's a great little game. Some of the best and bravest people in human history have played it. But they paid a terrific price. If you can pay that price—go to it. But if you can't—stay out.

What's Your Office Bogey?

by Herbert Kaufman

Don't boast of your bogey if you can't match it with an office score. Golf is primarily a recreation of maturity and success—a process of semi-retirement, rather than a young man's game.

Spend your spare time practicing business strokes. Most of the fellows who can land on the green in one aren't landing bonuses nor are they at the push end of executive bell buttons.

You can't play two games with all your strength and be a champion at either—the drain on mental and physical tissues is too great.

John D. Rockefeller didn't begin to swing at the ball until he had a tidy bank balance.

Andrew Carnegie didn't put on his knickers until the balance sheet assured him that he could risk an occasional afternoon on the links.

T. J. Watson was too busy, before fifty, building up the National Cash Register and whipping together the I. B. M. to learn the relative merits of niblick and mashie.

Schiff, Morgan and Harriman found all the exercise they could use in carrying railroads and industries on their backs.

When a fellow club member remarked upon Gladstone's indifferent billiard technique, he retorted that he managed his cue as well as any usefully occupied person could be expected to manipulate it.

Few of the gallery's pets are equally popular with the sales-record.

Tourney stars have a consistent habit of slicing their jobs and dubbing the details of critical contracts.

Check the list of sports champions and count how few of 'em are wearing medals or holding prize scores in finance, retailing or professions.

The average play-boy's a dull Jack and shows mighty poor form at every game which calls for imagination, enterprise and resourcefulness.

He squanders so much energy on the links and courts that he has none left for concentration.

An exhausted man can't think straight.

Exercise your muscles, but save some steam for the brain's daily dozen.

Mr. Gladstone wasn't a star cricketer, either. But he had enough vitality, in his eighties, to run the British Empire.

Photograph of the Moon

go to the moon propelled by gases exploding at one end, and return by the same propulsion.

Concerning the suggested enterprise, well under way in Paris, it is said:

> A manless rocket intended to take "close-up" photographs of the moon formed the subject of M. Robert Esnault-Pelterie's lecture to the Royal Aero Club last week. The moon is shown as an actual photograph, taken at the Paris Observatory by M. LeMorvan — this being, of course, the known face of our satellite. To take photographs of the other face of the moon—the hemisphere that is unknown to us—a rocket apparatus is being devised in Paris, not to carry a human being but a series of automatic cameras. It is hoped that a first attempt will be made next year. The rocket apparatus, which is shown as it might be seen approaching the moon at a high velocity and (inset) diagrammatically would consist of a combustion chamber completely closed except at one point. Once it had started from earth it would propel itself by the gases from the explosions of the rockets until gravity was overcome. M. Pelterie described the chief difficulties as being the choice of explosive and the automatic propulsion for a return journey, upon which experiments are well advanced.

The interesting fact is that to reach the moon, with or without passengers in the vehicle, it is only necessary to travel BEYOND THE EARTH'S GRAVITATION.

Go up a certain "height" or distance (there is no height, no up, no down, in the universe), go a certain number of miles away from the earth, and you will never come back. The earth would cease to attract you, and you would be drawn toward the nearest big object in space. If you went a certain distance toward the moon, the earth would lose its power over you and the moon would draw you.

If you went in another direction, you might land on our near neighbor, the planet Mars, only forty million miles away.

The bigger the object the greater the power of attraction.

Some of these days man will know a great deal more than he knows now. Science says the earth will last 1000 million years longer. The human race is only 12,000 years away from the Stone Age. Always bear that in mind.

If we have done so much in 12,000 years, how much will we be able to do in 1000 million years?
